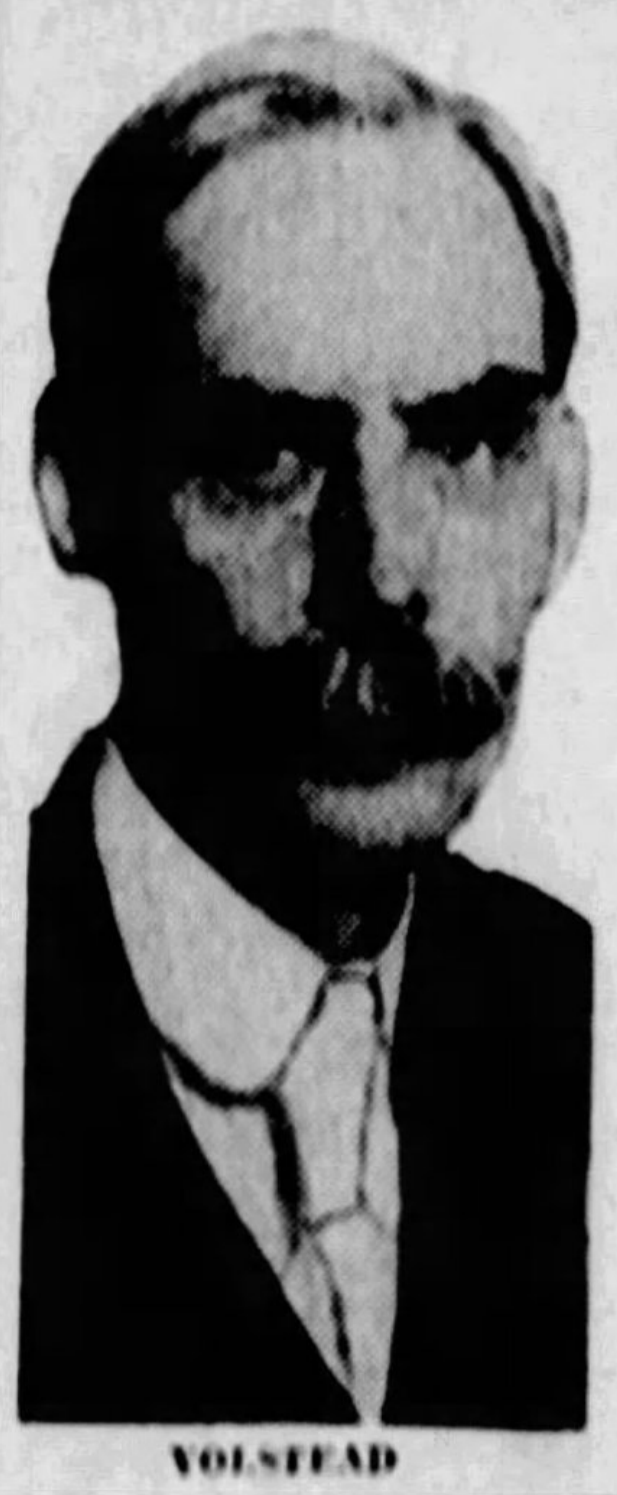
WINE, BEER INSPIRE NOBLEST MEN, SAYS BERGER URGING "WET" BILL



VOLSTEAD

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—"Wine and beer have helped to inspire the noblest races and the noblest men," Representative Victor Berger, Socialist, of Milwaukee, declared yesterday upon introducing a bill in the House to legalize 4 per cent beer and 12 per cent wine.

"Drinking races have always been in the vanguard of human progress," he said. "They always have been the greatest fighters for freedom. The most abstinent peoples of the world today, as far as alcohol is concerned, are the Mohammadans, and the people of Japan, India and China. These prohibitionists are practically excluded from settling in our country.

Death Is Merciful.
Caveman, Athletics.
On the Precipice.
O, Wicked Dream.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

(Copyright, 1928.)

AT 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon there was no news of ten fishermen adrift on a cake of ice in Lake Erie.

Young Mr. Butler, who succeeds his father as publisher in Buffalo, sent an airplane looking for the missing men, in charge of William Lee, assistant city editor, and two pilots. Already afloat more than twenty-four hours, the men are in danger of freezing to death.

WHAT would you think, or talk about, if you were one of the ten? Nothing probably. Death is merciful. Thinking and feeling become dull, or cease, at death's approach.

Even wild animals, nearly all dying violent deaths, suffer little, according to Darwin. In the excitement of flight and pursuit they feel nothing until death strikes.

HILDEGARD SCHWINGHAMMER, according to the vivacious Daily Mirror, is the champion nail driver in Minnesota's School of Agriculture.

Miss Schwinghammer, well named, drove ten nails into a surface in forty-four seconds. That would seem slow to professionals nailing shingles or laths for a living.

But it's important because it makes something really useful a part of athletic training. Our assorted kinds of athletics are mere survivals of other days, like the vermiform appendix. All useful once.

A MAN who wins a 100-yard dash today ran like that 100,000 years ago, to get to the nearest tree and climb out of danger.

A Scotchman "tossing the caber," a heavy timber, reincarnates the caveman tossing the trunk of a tree at an advancing bear.

A BASEBALL thrower descends from men that threw stones at their enemies. The high jumper, long jumper, hurdle racer and long distance runner all represent speed and agility that once meant the difference between life and death.

SOMEBODY said it is impossible to imagine how a man feels, hanging from the edge of a precipice, no help in sight. But

Justice of the Peace John P. O'Rourke of Broughton, union sympathizer, is at liberty today on bonds of $4,500 following his arrest yesterday on five charges preferred by employes of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation. Two more warrants probably will be served on him today by constables from the office of Justice of the Peace Margaret Morgan of Sewickley.

O'Rourke waived for court on one charge, that of aggravated assault and battery preferred by Lorenzo Antonelli, 30, who averred that when he went to O'Rourke's office to bail a friend the squire beat him soundly.

Three charges of aggravated assault and battery were lodged against both O'Rourke and one Walter Proscak by Terminal workers, Charles Howard, Julius Steck and Frank Wilson, who accuse the defendants of attacking them on

12 Million For Dry Bureau

By International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—A single appropriation bill carrying the enormous total of $1,533,746,148 was presented to Congress today by the House Appropriations Committee. It provides funds for the Treasury and Postoffice departments for the next fiscal year and includes funds for interest on the public debt and innumerable other items.

The prohibition bureau was given $12,729,140, or $591,265 less than last year. Additional funds, however, were provided for the coast guard and customs services to combat smuggling of liquor.

For purely departmental work, the treasury was given $51,000,000 less than last year, and the postoffice department $7,500,000 more.

CLAYTON ANDERSON

"Kidnaped" by his father 10 days ago, one-year-old Clayton Anderson is in Chattanooga, Tenn., in custody of his aunt. David Anderson, the father, testified in Morals Court today when he was arraigned on charges brought by his wife. Anderson's defense was that the child was not treated properly.

1,000 URGE TOWN HALL HERE AT MEETING

Pittsburgh is assured a great community auditorium for the entertainment and education of its people and the exploitation of the greatness of the city, if the sentiment expressed by more than 1,000 representatives of practically every business, industrial and civic organization in the county, meeting at a dinner in the William Penn Hotel last night, can be taken as an indication of the popularity of the great project.

The Town Hall Committee of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce, sponsored the dinner, and not since the days when a united people forgot every other interest in rallying the county's resources to aid in winning the World War, has such an enthusiastic gathering of representative men and women been assembled in one place in the county.

County Commissioners Joseph G. Armstrong, E. V. Babcock and Charles McGovern were honor guests at the affair and the purpose of the meeting was to lay the town hall project before them and urge them to authorize a bond issue, at the next election, to finance the auditorium.

George S. Davison, chairman of the town hall committee, was toastmaster and he gave a resume of the efforts of his organization to crystallize public sentiment in favor of the expenditure of a sum sufficient to secure an auditorium cap-

HYPNOTIST, HUNGRY GIRLS AT HEELS, FAILS TO PUT COURT ASLEEP

Billed on big theatrical posters as "Charles the Great, Hypnotist Extraordinary," Charles Hayes, 45, of 12 Federal street, in Morals Court today was dared to practice his art by Magistrate A. D. Brandon before whom he apeared on the charge of being a suspicious person. Nine young girls complained that Hays had hired them to appear in his show, but that they had been obliged to pawn their jewelry in order to eat.

"Looks as if you ought to go to the workhouse where you would have 1,000 subjects to hypnotize," observed Brandon when the girls recited their stories of empty pocketbooks and craving appetites. "Charles the Great" made no mysterious passes toward putting Brandon "to sleep" and the girls continued their recitals.

"We answered his advertisements in the newspapers and he told us he would give us $25 a week and board to appear as subjects in his show," explained Grace Hertzberg,

PUPILS PILE IN DITCH

SHARON, Pa., Feb. 7.—Fifteen Hickory township school children were injured, two seriously, when a bus in which they were riding to school skidded on an icy highway and overturned in a ditch near Hermitage this morning.

Mildred Hess, West Middlesex, and Joseph Gafner, Bethel, were cut and bruised and were taken to Buhl Hospital along with Julius Christy, driver of the bus.

Thirteen other pupils were piled in a heap when the bus skidded off the ice-covered road and overturned in a ditch at the side of the road. They scrambled out through windows and assisted their companions out of the bus. All were showered with glass. Most of the children were able to continue to school.

McGovern "Takes It Back"

The conference room in the county commissioners' office was thrown into a turmoil today when County Solicitor W. Heber Dithrich and Assistant Solicitor M. B. Lesher, jumping to their feet demanded from County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern an apology for utterances and charges he made against Solicitor Lesher. McGovern charged Lesher with representing defendants in the Zak and Golden election fraud hearings. The dismissal of Lesher was demanded by the Commissioner.

Due to the similarity of the name of Attorney Lesher to Attorney Benjamin Lencher, who represented Zak and Golden, McGovern, became confused and demanded Lesher's head.

Dithrich and Lesher immediately jumped to their feet demanding an apology.

"This is a damned outrage and the Commissioner should apologize," Attorney Dithrich shouted.

McGovern, realizing his mistake, immediately apologized and moved to have his remarks expunged from the records.

The Commissioners refused to entertain a motion of McGovern's to prohibit attorneys employed by the county to engage in private law practice in the future, submitted by McGovern after the Lesher affair. "As long as the attorney does not neglect county duties, I see no reason why he should not be allowed to engage in private practice," Solicitor Dithrich said. The Commissioners agreed with the solicitor.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—As officials of the American Federation of Labor gathered here to discuss the situation growing out of the use of injunctions in the Pennsylvania soft coal fields members of the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee were prepared to issue a favorable report on the resolution calling for a comprehensive investigation of the long-standing bituminous strike.

An agreement to recommend the investigation as proposed by Senator Hiram Johnson of California was reached by members of the committee during a series of informal conferences late yesterday.

ALIENISTS WAGE WORDY BATTLE OVER SANITY OF 'FOX'

"SCARED TO DEATH" AT TRIAL

By ARTHUR L. MAREK,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Feb. 7.—Recovered from a drowsy day of bewildering medical terms, the jury of four women and eight men, sitting in judgment on William Edward Hickman, today faced the prospect of witnessing a protracted and wordy battle of alienists over the sanity of the confessed kidnaper-killer of 12-year-old Marian Parker.

The opening day of the third week of Hickman's trial for a crime which he executed in three days brought somnolence to a drowsy courtroom.

Beyond his desk and out of view of Superior Judge J. J. Trabucco, the usually alert clerk shielded his eyes and pretended to be reading a book. Once, while an alienist talked learnedly about "paseveration" and "ideation" the weary clerk went to sleep.

EJECT SLEEPERS

Behind the court railing three spectators nodded. One woman had tilted her head against the back of her chair. Bailiffs ejected the "sleepers" from the courtroom.

Drooping in his chair alongside of his charge, Hickman's 135-pound bodyguard jerked back his head and shoulders to keep awake.

Looking down from his high bench upon the sleepy scene, Judge Trabucco stifled a yawn.

The chunky little doctor on the witness stand mopped the perspiration from his bald head and continued to talk about things "neologistic" and "hypochondriacal."

The prosecution alienists followed one another to the witness box and pictured Hickman as an irreligious youth who fitted the Ten Commandments to his own code of life and preferred to think he was being guided by a special providence.

The alienists revealed on the stand that Hickman had been under their constant observation all of the time that he was in the courtroom.

Here were some of his reactions which they described:

His confession was read. Hickman's expression was "stolid."

His mother was on the witness stand. His face was a "mass of gloom."

His former confederate in crime, Welby Hunt, testified against him. Hickman "smirked disdainfully."

The photographs of the mutilated body of Marian Parker stunned the jurrors. Hickman was "keenly interested."

But while the alienists were on the stand telling that these were the reactions of a sane person, Hickman was "scared to death," they testified.

that's a mistake. Gentlemen in Wall Street, said to be short 300,000 shares of General Motors this very minute, know how the man at the edge of the precipice feels better than he does.

It is a mistake to sell short. Tell that to your weanling child. For this prosperity MIGHT last until he grows up.

P. S.—Don't gamble short or long, in General Motors or anything else. If you do, no matter on which side you gamble, you also may know something about the feelings of the gentleman at the precipice brink.

AT Rockville, Conn., a white girl, 19 years old, descendant of a general on the Northern side in the Civil War, also claiming ancestors on the Mayflower, secures a license to marry a mulatto. The girl's mother consents because she thinks it "is for the best interest of the couple."

INTELLIGENT men, white and black, will agree that that is decidedly AGAINST the interest of both the man and the woman, and all of both races.

The poor Heine felt different about it long ago. Shocked to hear that a white clergyman was to be tarred and feathered because he allowed his daughter to marry a Negro, Heine exclaimed: "O! Freiheit Du Boeser Traum!" "O, Freedom, Thou Wicked Dream."

He thought there couldn't be any real freedom in America if such marriages were opposed. He was mistaken.

IF a dog bites a man we ignore it. If a man bites a dog that's news. Amos Cummings said it long ago, and Dr. Wood said it before Cummings did.

Often you read of a dog killed, defending his master, shot by a burglar, etc. That is hardly news. Now you read that Vincent J. McCarthy was killed by stab wounds while defending his dog. That is news.

ANONYMOUS letters, meanest kind of attack, have caused a run on some banks in Miami. It should be known that the financial condition of Florida generally, and of its money institutions, is excellent. This statement is made on excellent authority.

MINE ORGANIZER FREED AFTER NIGHT IN JAIL

CALIFORNIA, Pa., Feb. 7.—After spending a night in the borough lockup here, following his arrest by State Trooper Lockwood, Joseph Angelo, organizer for the United Mine Workers in this district, permitted friends to post bail for his appearance in court to answer a charge of inciting to riot. Angelo was given a hearing before Justice H. L. Swartz, this morning.

Angelo, who, following his arrest, refused to permit friends to furnish bail for his release, had plenty of company during the night. Men, women and children trooped to Angelo's cell. He was regarded as a martyr.

A charge of obstructing and resisting an officer was dropped today.

The demonstration at California followed by only a few hours the shooting of two coal and iron police employed at the Crescent mine of the Pittsburgh Coal Company near here.

J. D. Buttermore and F. P. Byrne, the men wounded, were struck by pellets from a shotgun. They were shot from the back as they turned when attracted by other shots.

George Zelinick of Phillipsburg was arrested by state police as the man who had fired to attract the attention of the coal and iron policemen and is being held here on a charge of felonious assault with intent to kill.

burgh district, had announced that some definite action would be taken on the proposed inquiry at its next meeting, set for Friday morning. The decision to recommend the investigation was arrived at when a canvass of the membership revealed later that no objection was to be raised.

As things stand today, the report of the Johnson resolution may come any time and may not be delayed until Friday. A meeting may be called for the purpose before then.

Unless some unforseen development occurs the report of the Interstate Commerce body urging the inquiry will be approved without serious difficulty. Senator James E. Watson of Indiana, chairman of the committee, is authority for the statement that no opposition to its passage has been indicated thus far.

Officials of the American Federation of Labor, headed by President Green and John L. Lewis, leader of the United Mine Workers of America, together with about 100 others, will meet this afternoon to lay plans for combatting the use of injunctions by state and Federal courts.

Injunctions issued in Pennsylvania in connection with the present strike are more responsible than anything else for the general conference here. Those granted by Federal Judge Schoonmaker at Pittsburgh and by the State Court in Indiana county in the case of the Clearfield Bituminous Coal Corporation are mentioned specifically by officials of the mine workers.

Representatives of the trade union will also appear before the Senate Judiciary Committee to urge favorable action on the bill by Senator Shipstead of Minnesota outlawing labor injunctions. The bill is pending before the Judiciary Committee.

Upon his return to the capital from Pittsburgh, Senator Wheeler made a vivid recital of conditions in the Western Pennsylvania mines as he found them on his personal tour of inspection, and made vigorous demands that an investigation be ordered.

Convention Rum Flow Bunged

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—(AP.)—Prohibition officials are wasting no time starting their campaign to make the Republican and Democratic national conventions dry.

A force of undercover men already has been placed in charge of Alf Oftedal, right hand man of Prohibition Commissioner Doran, and they are centering their efforts on preventing the storage of liquor supplies in Kansas City and Houston in advance of the conventions.

Evidence is at hand that movements already are afoot by big liquor operators to lay in stores at the convention cities from Mexico and by the water routes, and some signs of such activities have been noticed even as far away as the Canadian border. Enforcement is expected to be more difficult in Houston than in Kansas City because the Texas city is closer to the Mexican border and the Gulf.

While Federal officials do not anticipate any raiding of hotel rooms and harassing of delegates, they believe they will break the backbone of the convention liquor trade by preventing the arrival of large supplies of liquor and by breaking down the distribution system of the bootleggers by a sharp espionage.

Negro Wed To White Girl

ROCKVILLE, Conn., Feb. 7.—Justice of the Peace Carl Goehring, of Ellington, announced today that he had married Miss Beatrice Fuller, white, and her Negro sweetheart, Clarence Kellem.

Goehring said the ceremony was performed at Kellem's home here early today. The couple left secretly for Philadelphia immediately afterward, the justice of the peace said.

Undismayed by the refusal of the Rev. George H. Brooks, Congregational pastor, to perform the ceremony late last night, the 19-year-old girl, who claims descent from Mayflower stock, and her dusky fiance were reported to have appealed later to Goehring, who agreed to marry them.

The Negro said last night he had received threats from the Ku Klux Klan. As confirmation of his report, a fiery cross flared from atop Pillsbury Hill, near the Kellem home, while the mulatto was seeking a minister to perform the ceremony.

Two Try Death at Mines

Worry over the strike situation is blamed for the suicide of a striking miner at Imperial and the attempted suicide of a 20-year-old girl at Bruceton yesterday.

Velentine Petermel, 47, idle for months and dependent on charity for his food and shelter, hanged himself from a fence post in the yard of his home, according to the coroner's report.

Florence Fishman, 20, whose father, a storekeeper of Bruceton, died a few weeks ago, leaped from a trestle of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad over Lick Run Creek near her home in Bruceton yesterday and was dragged from the stream by Ted Frazier, a neighbor. The Fishman family, now consisting of a mother and two daughters, has suffered much anxiety since the father's death, and the girl had brooded over strike disturbances.

DROP HUNT FOR ICE VICTIMS

By International News Service

BUFFALO, N. Y., Feb. 7.—Search for 10 fishermen reported lost on an ice floe in Lake Erie was definitely abandoned today when thorough investigation failed to show that there had actually been any men on the floe; or that if there had been any, they had been carried out into the late.

A check-up along the shore from Port Colborne to Port Erie showed no men reported missing and on the United States shores there were none unaccounted for.

Several airplanes were used in the search as well as small boats commanded by coast guard officers. Officials said that in their opinion those who reported the 10 men carried away on the floe had been confused by shadows.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—George H. Tabor, Jr., chairman of the board of the Sinclair Crude Oil Company, was as "ignorant" of the $50,000,000 Continental Trading Company's oil deal "as a man in the street," he testified today at the new Teapot Dome inquiry.

Looked upon as a "missing witness" for 10 days, and sought all over the country by process servers, Tabor proved a disappointment to the committee. He shed no light on the Continental deal, and he knew nothing about its $3,080,000 Liberty bond fund.

Flurry at Miami Ended

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 7.—(AP.)—Rapidly diminishing excitement today following yesterday's flurry which resulted from the closing of three Miami banks brought optimistic statements from financiers and state banking officials. Some withdrawals were being made, but the lines to tellers' cages were not as long nor as insistent as those of yesterday.

State officials said they anticipated no more suspensions.

"The recovery really might be classed as remarkable," said E. M. Porter, chief state bank examiner. "Usually in such cases the excitement is more intense on the second and third day than on the first. Here the flurry seems to have died out overnight."

Emergency funds had been received by practically every major institution in town. No accurate estimate of the total sent in could be made, but bankers' unofficial guesses ran from $6,000,000 to $10,000,000. The funds were brought in secretly late at night.

"We've got plenty of money," was the only comment bankers would make. "We don't see why they should want it, but if they do they can get it."

As was the case yesterday, the First National Bank, with the Bank of Biscayne Second, was serving the longest lines of the nervous. Both are said in financial circles to be among the strongest institutions in the state.

OIL BARON REMAINS FREE

By International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—Col. Robert W. Stewart, millionaire Standard Oil official, was assured this afternoon of at least two more weeks of freedom from arrest by the United States Senate for refusing to answer its questions bearing on the oil scandals.

After two and one-half hours of argument bearing on the Senate's rights to arrest the oil man, Justice Jennings Bailey in District Supreme Court granted both sides additional time to file briefs and adjourned the hearing. The court's action leaves still in effect the writ of habeas corpus by which the oil magnate obtained his release from Senate custody on Saturday.

Stewart's counsel was given a week in which to file a brief, and George W. Wickersham, ex-attorney general, was granted until a week from next Friday to submit a brief for the government.

Milk Gives Seven Fever

Seven persons in the county have been stricken with typhoid fever as the result of drinking unpasteurized milk, Dr. John R. Conover, medical director of Allegheny county for the State Department of Health, told the county commissioners today in asking for a $5,000 appropriation for salaries of milk inspectors.

Dr. Conover said that no epidemic is foreseen, but cited that in Toronto, Can., 6,000 persons contracted typhoid from drinking "raw" or unpasteurized milk. The physician said that there are 265 farms in the county where the milk is not pasteurized, and "these dairies are selling raw milk," said Dr. Conover.

The purpose of Dr. Conover is to establish a new department and engage qualified milk inspectors to visit every farm in the county and make an inspection.

Dr. Conover said a very serious condition exists in the county, and that a proper milk inspection is imperative if the health of citizens is to be safeguarded.

Communitiese are to inspect all milk, the state law specifies, but, the physician pointed out, some of the smaller communities such as second-class townships haven't the money and do not comply with the law.

No action was taken on the matter today by the Commissioners.

CANCER IN MICE CURED BY ELECTRIC CURRENT

By International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—After long years of study and experimentation scientists of the United States Public Health Service have succeeded in curing mice of cancer.

This startling information was divulged at a secret session of a House Appropriations sub-committee by Dr. A. M. Stimson of the surgeon general's staff, it was disclosed with publication of the hearings.

Though concealing with difficulty his enthusiasm over the initial success of government physicians in the long quest, Dr. Stimson warned the committee that the experiments are far from complete.

The method used—an oscillating electric current of very high frequency—has never before been followed by recognized scientists in the world-wide search for a cancer cure, he said.

A quiet, unassuming staff member of Polish extraction—Dr. Joseph Schereschewsky—is given full credit for the remarkable experiments.

For five years he has been plodding along in a laboratory furnished by Harvard University, with the advice and assistance of directors of the public health service here.

"Dr. Schereschewsky has found that by submitting mice which had cancer artificially induced in them to this high frequency current a certain percentage of them can be cured," said Dr. Stimson positively.

"At the same time he has found that some of them, if the dosage is a little too high, will die. It is a question of further investigating the exact dosage of this physical agent.

"However, he has had some 30 mice there that had terrible tumors, and after the treatment the tumors subsided, and the mice lived."

Although officials of the Public Health Service have made known that experiments were being carried on, they have never before admitted any degree of success and frequently have questioned the claims of physicians who declared that they had found cancer cures.

Whether the experiment will be tried on humans in the near future is undecided. Dr. Stimson said that great difficulty has been found in calculating the exact dosage necessary to remove tumors from mice. The slightest variation brings death.

Members of the congressional committee who heard Dr. Stimson were greatly impressed, and lost little time in recommending funds to carry on the work.

Repulsed when he attempted to strike up an acquaintance with Mrs. Georgette McClure, 40, of 520 Arch street, late last night, an unidentified man, police say, threw acid in her face.

Mrs. McClure was walking alone in West Ohio street near Eula way when suddenly the stranger stepped from a secluded spot. Taking a few steps toward her he seized her by the arm and spoke.

"I don't know you," Mrs. McClure replied.

Hardly had she spoken when the stranger thrust a hand in his coat pocket and withdrawing a vial spattered the acid in her face. He then turned and fled. Mrs. McClure screamed and pedestrians who were more than half a block away ran to her aid.

After receiving first aid from Dr. O. L. Cook of 1200 Madison avenue Mrs. McClure was taken home. Due to the suddenness of the attack Mrs. McClure was unable to give North Side police a detailed description of the fugitive.

HAITI FETES AMBASSADOR OF AIR

By International News Service.

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti, Feb. 7.—With another admiring populace at his feet, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh today was feted and banqueted and taken on sightseeing tours through this island. Everywhere he went, America's smiling young ambassador of good will was cheered and hailed as the "new Columbus."

As evidence of this feeling, Andre Chevallier, president of the Haitian Athletic Club, presented Col. Lindbergh with a round mahogany paper-weight, the top of the weight bore the arms of Haiti set in gold and on the bottom, set in iron from the anchor or Christopher Columbus' flagship, the Santa Maria, was inscribed:

"Columbus—Lindbergh, 1492—1928."

The round of official, social and other functions arranged for Col. Lindbergh are to last until tomorrow noon, at which time the young flier will take off on his last hop of his present tour—bound for Havana.

PHILADELPHIAN'S AIDS QUIT SESSION IN HUFF

By International News Service

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—The Senate's recount of Pennsylvania ballots, seized from the 1926 senatorial election, started this afternoon after three days of confusing and delay.

With all representatives of Senator-Elect William S. Vare, (Rep.), of Pennsylvania absent, the Waterman elections sub-committee began checking returns from the First Ward of Pittsburgh. Vare's representatives bolted the recount this morning after protesting the presence of representatives from the Reed Slush Fund Committee. The Vare men charged the Reed Committee's "checkers" were actually working for William B. Wilson, Democratic contestant of Vare's election.

Kuenzel left unceremoniously when Algernon R. Clapp, Reed committee supervisor in the recount, entered the room with five assistants. Kuenzel declared they were all Wilson partisans and refused to stay.

Kuenzel also objected that Robert Carson, of Pennsylvania, who was present, constituted an additional representative for Mr. Wilson.

Senator Waterman, Republican, of Colorado, chairman of the elections committee, which was to start the recount for Allegheny county today ruled against Kuenzel. While Kuenzel was communicating with Philadelphia as to the next step the recount was delayed.

Meanwhile Senator Reed, Democrat, Missouri, chairman of the campaign funds committee, was going ahead with an inspection of the Philadelphia ballots in the 1926 election in another room of the Senate office building.

HIT CONSTABLES FOR FAILURE TO FILE RETURNS

Failure of constables, particularly in the city wards, to file quarterly returns was assailed in Quarter Sessions Court by Judge Ambrose B. Reid, presiding over the customary "blind man's parade."

"The law has been wilfully disregarded," declared Judge Reid. "It is a fact that many constables are not making returns as required by law. These returns must be made within a reasonable time or processes will be issued for constables."

CITE RETURNS MISSING

Many returns from city wards are missing, according to First Assistant District Attorney Andrew T. Park, who said that returns have been received only from the First, Second, Third, Fourteenth, Nineteenth, Twenty-fourth and Twenty-eighth wards. It developed that Chief George W. Murren of the county detectives has ordered prepared an index of constables, with complete information, an innovation that will be available to correct the failure of returns.

ELECTION CASES UP

The February term of Criminal Court, to continue to June, started yesterday with Judge Joseph M. Swearingen presiding. He charged the February grand jury, which began its duties facing a number of bills charging election frauds at the September primary and other important cases, including charges of holding an illegal commissioners' meeting against County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong and William H. Ziefel, chief clerk. Oscar S. McCurdy, engineer, of 100 East End avenue, Fourteenth Ward, was selected as foreman of the grand jury, which is made up of 13 men and seven women. Two jury panels of 120 jurors each started two weeks' service, 20 jurors, including four women, being excused.

Plane Trips Ok., But Not Lunches, Rogers Told

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal. Feb. 7.—I want to do all I can to further aviation. A good Jewish friend of mine just wrote me from Newark that he made the trip East by plane from here, had a wonderful trip, but all the box lunches that are handed you on the way by the company have nothing but ham sandwiches.

Now, this is a thing that I will see is remedied. So our slogan will be, "Foods for all races." Yours,

WILL ROGERS.

GIMBEL BROTHERS
the modern spirit in china and glass

Only a plate and a glass.
But the plate is Spode pottery.
Spode, of which Mark Twain must have thought when he said . . . "the very mark on the bottom of a piece of pottery is able to throw me into a gibbering ecstasy." Spode . . . the choice of nobility since the eighteenth century. Spode . . . that is made for posterity.
And the glass is rock crystal.
With the music of royal banquet halls sounding clear in its note. Rock crystal is to glassware what "Sterling" is to silver. Rock crystal stemware, for homes that appreciate the superlative.
Theodore Haviland china, too, is here. Mellow, ivory-toned china with modern, colorful decorations.
Modern knowledge, admitting no substitutes for beauty, will lead you to Gimbels in Pittsburgh . . . to the inspired masterpieces of the world gathered here for you.

The New Cotton Prints

Spring, 1928

YOU are invited to see Horne's collection of spring prints expressed in wash fabrics. In many respects it is the most attractive we've ever offered.

The prints are without doubt the most beautiful and charming there have ever been. The designs have been created by people with artistic skill and style-consciousness. And certain refinements in printing have made it possible to reproduce them in fabrics more faithfully than ever before. Incidentally, new dyes are being used which not only make it possible to obtain more lovely effects than ever, but also make the colors fast to water and sun alike.

The high place of cottons in the spring and summer mode is attested by the repeated accounts of its success in sunny resorts in every fashion report. But the most convincing proof is a sight of the fabrics themselves.

The New Silks

Seconding the nomination of Prints for Spring! Presented in a joyously diverse collection of silks of different weaves and weights.

CIVIC LEADERS DEMAND TOWN HALL AT DINNER

URGE PLAN IN COUNTY-WIDE MEETING

able of housing the largest conventions, industrial expositions and community assemblages held anywhere in the United States.

The main addresses were delivered by William Ganson Rose, chairman of the committee that secured for Cleveland the finest municipal auditorium in the country, and Lincoln G. Dickey, manager of the great building. Mr. Rose stirred the huge crowd to intense enthusiasm by his graphic story of how the Forest City secured its palatial civic center at cost of $6,000,000, with a $2,000,000 addition now being constructed, and what the auditorium has meant to that city.

He stated that a conservative estimate of the additional business attracted to Cleveland since the auditorium was opened four years ago was $25,000,000, and that the educational and entertainment benefits meant more than could be computed in dollar marks to the people of not only the city, but of the entire state of Ohio.

His description of the publicity campaign that reached every elector in the city and secured the largest vote for the project ever cast in Cleveland for any person or enterprise, was a romance of practical and intensive advertising. Mr. Rose's talk was illustrated with lantern slides showing other public auditoriums in cities of the United States. He urged all the people to get solidly back of Pittsburgh's civic auditorium plans.

HALL YIELDS PROFIT

Mr. Dickey described in detail the operation of the building and amazed his hearers with the statement that the building has paid all operation and maintenance costs and shown a snug balance in the treasury. He told of some of the huge assemblies held in the building, notably of a card party one afternoon that attracted 14,000 persons at an admission price of 50 cents each. The Metropolitan Opera Company draws capacity crowds for a week each year, and is under contract to give performances for the next five years. He told of attractions for one week in the auditorium which included a three-ring circus, a religious revival meeting, a convention of educators, a boxing show, card party and a musical performance, all of which attracted crowds aggregating about 100,000 persons.

Mayor Charles H. Kline made a ringing plea for the town hall and listed plans for the fabrication of Pittsburgh's own steel, better housing conditions, more playgrounds, flood walls and a great airport as among the county's needs. He lauded the County Commissioners for their large program of county improvements already made, under construction and in contemplation.

WANTS COUNTY MEMORIAL

Commissioner Armstrong said if the people authorized a bond issue for the auditorium that he was averse to calling it a "town hall" and suggested that some fitting name memorializing the county's war heroes be selected.

George P. Kountze, president of the Allied Boards of Trade, spoke on the "Dividends from a town hall," and pointed out that benefits accruing to the people in education and entertainment were to be considered before monetary advantage.

Mrs. Carl E. Cosolowsky, president of the Congress of Women's Clubs, was warmly applauded for her championship of the town hall idea. Her subject was "What the Town Hall Means to Women." She told of visiting Cleveland, and conducting a symposium among representatives of women's organizations relative to the influence of the auditorium on the community. The verdict was that Cleveland's town hall is Ohio's biggest asset. Mrs. Cosolowsky made a special appeal for support of the enterprise here because of the wider scope it would afford in child training.

James C. Chaplin, president of the Colonial Trust Company, spoke on "Why the Town Hall is a County Project," urging the people to vote for a bond issue if it is submitted.

District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner told how "A Town Hall will Care for Political Conventions," and said Pittsburgh would welcome the Republican National convention in 1932 and those of the Democratic and Prohibition parties any time they want to learn how Republicans keep the nation prosperous and how the Volstead Act is enforced in Pittsburgh.

Frank J. Lanahan's subject was "The necessity for a Town Hall for Industrial Expositions." He told of the great number of conventions that had side-stepped the city because of inadequate assembly facilities.

A telegram from Senator David A. Reed, expressing his regret at not being able to be present because of a press of business in Washington, was read by Chairman Davison.

Mr. Davison presented a resolution indorsing the public auditorium, which was enthusiastically adopted.

The committees in charge of the affair were:

Arrangements — Wilmer M. Jacoby, Raymond Kenny, George P. Kountz, Joseph T. Miller, C. V. Shoup, Joe T. Taylor and John W. Vickerman.

Speakers—Thomas A. Dunn and James F. Keenan.

On the anniversary of the founding of Boy Scout movement in America, The Colonial Trust Company announces

A Plan for Permanent Support of the Boy Scouts

THE Colonial Trust Company announces a plan by which you can now set up a force that will go on stamping your influence on young lives for years and years after you are gone. A plan by which any gift you now give will not be used and disappear but will go on and on and on for all time, giving education and health and inspiration to each passing generation . . . but never passing away itself.

Would you like to have a little of your influence going on like that?

The Colonial Trust Company has set up a public trust fund for the Allegheny County Council, Boy Scouts of America. Any person is privileged to deposit any sum of money in that trust fund. Or any securities. Or real estate. Any money or property so deposited will be retained as a permanent fund. It will be managed and invested, and the income will go toward carrying on the work of the Boy Scouts in molding and shaping the lives and character of the Men of Tomorrow.

You can put into that trust fund any sum you wish, large or small. You can put it there in a lump sum or in installments, if you wish. You can put it there by bequest in a will, or through insurance. You can put there as little as a dollar, if you wish.

And that trust fund will give you the means of participating in a work which is having a greater influence on young maturing lives than almost any other agency in America.

This trust fund arrangement which The Colonial for the first time is opening to the general public is the means now widely used by men and women of wealth to make sure that some of their worldly possessions will carry on after them with some degree of permanence.

Any officer of The Colonial will be glad to talk with you regarding any gift you wish to make to the Boy Scout Trust Fund. Come in personally; telephone, or fill in and mail the attached coupon.

The Growth of the Boy Scout Movement—Introduced in America only 16 years ago. Membership now 875,000 boys. Membership in Pittsburgh district has increased almost 400% in last five years. Scouts have saved city alone many thousands of dollars through their public services. In recent gas explosion, more than 500 Scouts were on duty assisting police, hospital authorities and relief agencies.

LOCAL MAN HAD GAS ON STOMACH

Suffered Seven Years; Says "Ten Herbs Made Life Worth Living."

"I suffered with my stomach for seven years," was the statement of Mr. Alan T. Munroe, 607 W. Diamond Street, North Side, Pittsburgh, to the Ten Herbs Man, who is at May's Main Store, 529 Liberty Avenue, Pittsburgh, where he is daily demonstrating the popular new herbal compound, Ten Herbs.

MR. ALAN T. MUNROE

"Food would not digest properly, but would form gas on my stomach, and cause great distress," Mr. Munroe continued. "I feared going to bed at night, as I would often suffer with gas until I would be completely worn out. Green spots came before my eyes sometimes, and my heart seemed to pound. I was discharged from service (Sgt. R. M. W. M. Police), as physically unfit.

"Ten Herbs made life worth living. It toned up my stomach, and I can eat anything without having any distress afterwards. I am not bothered with gas any more. Ten Herbs not only relieved indigestion, but regulated my bowels and benefited my kidneys. I feel fine now. This wonderful medicine did me so much good that I gladly recommend it to the public."

When you use this celebrated compound, Ten Herbs, and it begins to cleanse your system of the awful accumulations of poisonous waste matter and impurities; when it benefits and invigorates the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels; when aches and pains throughout the body, billiousness, dizziness, headaches, constipation, and other distress are relieved—then you understand why so many people here, and almost everywhere, look with such favor upon this great natural medicine. Ten Herbs has helped others in this section and why not you?

The Ten Herbs Man is at May's Main Store, 529 Liberty Avenue, Pittsburgh, where he is daily meeting the public and explaining the merits of this medicine. Free sample given.

MOBILIZE LABOR IN COUNTY TO AID STRIKERS

PLAN NUMEROUS BENEFITS FOR MINERS

Union labor organizations throughout the country are being mobilized to furnish relief to the striking miners of Western Pennsylvania. If the strikers can hold out, as they say, "till the bluebirds come," they feel they will easily be able to continue the strike, if need be, until next winter; for with the coming of warm weather they will be able to raise foodstuffs in their gardens and to earn money by working on road and construction jobs.

William Collins, of the American Federation of Labor, is resurrecting the central labor councils in all the nearby towns and stimulating them into activity in behalf of the miners. He was in Beaver Falls last night. Two truckloads of food and clothing were collected there for the destitute families and arrangements made for continuing the relief work. A midnight benefit show for the miners will be held soon in the Beaver valley.

PLAN BENEFIT CONCERT

The American Federation of Musicians is planning a Sunday afternoon concert in Pittsburgh for the benefit of the miners. It was intended to hold it in the Nixon Theater next Sunday afternoon, but the municipal authorities have thus far refused to grant a permit, according to the union officials, and it will be necessary on that account to postpone it until Sunday, February 19, at the earliest. "Some unseen influence," it was said, is raising one objection after another to the granting of a permit. There is indignation over the situation in union labor circles, because, it is pointed out, the city firemen have been permitted to give Sunday afternoon concerts for beneficial purposes. They had the United States Marine Band play at the Mosque.

If the permit can be obtained it is proposed to have at least 600 musicians participate in the concert. The plans call for numbers by a band of 125 pieces, and others by a symphony orchestra of 150 instruments.

GIVE BOXING EXHIBIT

A boxing show will be given in the Gen. Logan Armory, Oakland, for the benefit of the miners, Saturday night, February 18. There will be 10 amateur bouts.

The Melody Makers Concert Company and other Negro entertainers will give an entertainment for the benefit of the miners in the Watt Street School auditorium tomorrow evening. There will be no charge for admission, but a collection will be taken.

"Bundle Day" for the striking miners is being observed in Burgettstown today, and there will be a benefit performance for them in the Alm moving picture theater there tonight.

A dance for the benefit of the miners will be held at Linden Grove on the Charleroi and Washington street car line Thursday evening. The music will be donated by Freund's orchestra.

CONFER IN JOHNSTOWN

John Brophy, of Pittsburgh, formerly president of District No. 2, United Mine Workers of America, which takes in Central Pennsylvania, returned today from Johnstown, where a great meeting for the relief of the striking miners of Cambria county was held yesterday. Twenty local unions sent delegates and a permanent organization was formed. Social workers and ministers plan to form relief organizations which will co-operate with the trade union committees. There are 18,000 miners in Cambria county. A car of cabbage and a car of potatoes were donated at the meeting yesterday.

The central relief committee, headed by Dr. E. N. Clopper, executive secretary of the Federation of Social Agencies, has added workers to assist in the distribution of the additional relief made possible by contributions received from the businessmen's relief committee, recently organized.

SCHOOLS AT YOUNGWOOD BAN WIVES AS TEACHERS

GREENSBURG, Pa., Feb. 7.—There was bad news for the brides today. The school directors at Youngwood decided that after June married women will not be permitted to teach in the public schools. The several wives now dispensing education will be fired, the directors agreed.

KLONDIKE PROSPECTOR DIES IN WAYNESBURG

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Feb. 7.—John C. Wilson, 70, prospector in the Klondike gold rush and formerly engaged in business in Pittsburgh and Wheeling, W. Va., died yesterday after a long illness. He spent several years in Alaska and western states in connection with gold mining. He was awarded a Carnegie Hero medal and $1,000 in 1915 when he saved a boy from drowning in Ten Mile Creek, near here. He was proprietor of a billiard parlor here for many years.

LEANS ON ALARM, THINGS MOVE

At 9:10 o'clock this morning, the "holdup" alarm was sounded in the sheriff's office and county detective headquarters from the office of the county paymaster, on the "half" floor in the courthouse.

The alarm bells continued ringing, as deputies and detectives gathered up riot guns, tear gas bombs and revolvers and dashed for the holdup scene, the deputies from the rear on the first floor, and the detectives from the front on the third floor.

Others in the building joined in the rush, which ended in a wild jam in the paymaster's office. Everything had been placid there, and an employe, startled by the commotion, realized he was leaning on the alarm signal.

WOMEN VOTERS OPPOSE OVAL AS AIRPLANE FIELD

The Allegheney County League of Women Voters disapproves Schenley Oval as an airplane landing field, Council was informed in a communication from Mrs. G. W. Hershey, chairman of the league's city government committee. "It is difficult enough to dodge golf balls and automobiles without having the added necessity of dodging airplanes," wrote Mrs. Hershey.

BUTTER, EGG EXCHANGE ELECTS CRAIG PRESIDENT

W. J. Craig was elected president of the Pittsburgh Butter and Egg Exchange at a meeting in McCann's dining room yesterday. Others elected were: First vice president, J. R. Lloyd; second vice president, George Dunseath; secretary, A. V. Mason; treasurer, R. J. Philpot, and sergeant-at-arms, T. A. Fischer. E. W. Stoker, retiring president, was delegated to represent the Pittsburgh exchange at the Federal Agricultural Trades of America in New York Friday.

MINERS CALLED TO ORGANIZE LABOR PARTY

Feeling that the coal miners' strike has created a situation favorable to the formation of an active Labor Party in Western Pennsylvania, a number of local trade unionists, headed by John Brophy, formerly president of District No. 2, United Mine Workers of America, have issued a call for a meeting to be held at Walton Hall, Stanwix street, Sunday, February 26, when a program, platform and candidates will be decided upon. Preliminary steps were taken at a meeting in Walton Hall last Sunday afternoon, when an executive committee was formed.

The Labor Party made a showing of strength at the election of last November in precincts where there are many striking coal miners, and certain radical trade unionists believe it will prove even stronger at the next election.

Brophy said today that circular letters soon would be issued to the 150 local unions of Allegheny county asking each to send two delegates to the forthcoming meeting. A full ticket will be placed in the field.

The present officers of the American Federation of Labor and of its largest constituent body, the United Mine Workers of America, are not favorable to the formation of a Labor party. Their policy is to use the old parties to gain their ends, supporting the friends and opposing the enemies of organized labor regardless of whether they are Republicans or Democrats.

Brophy is regarded as somewhat of a radical. He recently returned from a trip to Russia and at a mass meeting at North Side Carnegie Hall last Sunday night introduced a resolution, which was adopted, calling for the recognition of the Soviet government by the United States on the ground that it would be beneficial to American commerce.

JOHANNA IS OUT, POLICE WAITING

Johanna Murphy, 226 East General Robinson street, has company. But Johanna is not at home.

Three policemen, in eight-hour shifts, are making themselves at home, waiting for their hostess. There is an extra fine radio, and nicely upholstered chairs make for comfort, so the officers are not particular about the time of her return.

Two angora cats, a bull pup and a canary bird also desired to remain, for when agents of the Animal Rescue League and the Humane Society called for them today the animals hid. One cat and the pup finally were captured.

Inspector Joseph Faulkner says he wants Johanna on a charge of keeping a disorderly house. She was not present when the house was raided early Sunday, when three men were arrested. They were fined $10 each in Morals Court yesterday.

NEW JUDGES TRY FIRST COMMON PLEAS CASES

Actors Living Their Parts Lift "The Jazz Singer" Upon The Heights of Great Drama

By GEORGE SEIBEL.

GEORGE SEIBEL

HOW little it would take to make "The Jazz Singer" a very great play! How little it would take to turn it into sentimental piffle! The drama presented at the Alvin Theater last night by a company perfect in every detail shows the age-old conflict between father and son, between the stern tenets of a faith that is passing and the gay challenge of a young world. It reminds one of "Magda" in some of its moods, of "The Music Master" in other moods. Full of character sketches that are appealing by their truth and humor, and telling a story intensely dramatic, it is only the incredible length of the arm of coincidence and the superheated sentimentality of the last act that blur a perfect picture.

The story is about the son of a Jewish cantor—a boy who has run away from home and become a jazz singer. He returns on his father's sixtieth birthday, but is driven out by the stern old cantor, who wishes his son to become a cantor and keep up the family tradition. Next we see the young man at the dress rehearsal of the musical show in which he is expected to make a tremendous hit. News is brought that his father is dying—and it is the Day of Atonement. To gladden his father's last hours he is to go to the synagogue and chant the immemorial prayers of Israel. He has to decide between filial affection and theatrical glory—between the lure of the footlights and the call of mother love. As the curtain falls on the last act, his manager and the girl the Jazz Singer loves are listening to the services in the synagogue—sentiment has won over ambition and worldly success.

George Jessel is the Jazz Singer, and he makes this story seem a true transcript of life. He is the type he portrays—the part is unthinkable if played by anybody else. But that is true of every one of the Jewish characters in the play. The old cantor played with fine restraint by Joseph Shoengold, the mother portrayed with rich sympathy by Madame Ann Lowenwirth, the humorous Yudelson of Sam Jaffe, the flamboyant Clarence of Irving Lande—all are true types from the East Side of New York.

The heroine as played by Lea Tais is full of charm, and there are other admirable bits of acting in the play, but none of these has the inevitability and human veracity of the Jewish portraiture. See "The Jazz Singer"—it is like a Rembrandt or a Franz Hals. With one difference—those supreme artists did not resort to little tricks to squeeze a few tears out of your lachrymal ducts.

"The Jazz Singer" shows us life, but life overdone and a wee bit soggy. Coincidence is not quite so cruel. Sentiment is not quite so soft! The stone wall of an old religion is not quite so hard or so high! With these reservations the drama can be recommended highly to all who like acting that grips you with the sincerity of supreme art. Mr. Jessel and his company live their parts.

COHEN, KELLY FILM IN CAMEO, CAMERAPHONE

"The Cohens and Kellys in Paris," a sequel to the laugh film, "The Cohens and the Kellys," is being presented in the Cameo and Cameraphone. The same old Cohens that help to bring the laughs in the new vehicle—George Sidney and Vera Gordon. The same Mrs. Kelly also, for Kate Price again essays that role. But Kelly himself, he's a new man, so to speak, for J. Farrell McDonald has supplanted Charlie Murray in this part. But when the Cohens and Kellys meet in Paris there is little time to miss the familiar Murray face—things keep happening too continuously. As a start, the Kelly boy marries the Cohen girl. This starts the two families in a mad rush to Paris, which, in turn, is just the start of many comedy situations. The cast includes Gertrude Astor and Charles Delaney.

"Tommy," Comedy of Love And Politics, Gives Much Pleasure to Nixon Audience

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

AS AMUSING and delightful a little comedy as has come this way in many months was revealed in "Tommy," which kept an audience in the Nixon in continuous laughter last night. This mixture of average domestic life in the average American home, and adolescent love, with a display of the inner workings of our common garden variety of politics just to make it a little more complicated, is by Howard Lindsay and Bertrand Robinson, who have made it as natural as buckwheat cakes for breakfast and equally as satisfying. It is all about folks we know everywhere, intimate and pleasing, with a laugh in every line.

Sidney Toler, with deft and artistic smoothness, gave a portrait of a bachelor uncle of the heroine and a small town politician, who applied political methods to the love affairs of his niece, whose parents were so much in favor of Tommy Mills that she was in a position of having no choice of her own in the matter. And she did like Tommy, too, but rebelled against interference of her parents.

So the wise Uncle Dave—Mr. Toler—just turned the situation upside down and the first thing Tommy knew he was ordered out of the house and his rival was installed in the parental good graces, which he had not previously had.

That, of course, is not all of the story, but just a sketchy outline of the main part, just enough to give an idea without spoiling the prospective fun in store for those who attend—and there is plenty of fun, you may be assured.

Mr. Toler made his characterization one that stamps him as a real comedian. Maidel Turner, as his married sister, was a cheery figure of a comfortable motherly dame and Lloyd Neal was a continual laugh as her quick-tempered, outspoken spouse, whose livery business is on edge of the rocks. William Janney, the Tommy of the title, though young in years, did his work with all the art of a veteran and had the sympathy of the audience from beginning to end. Regina Brown played Marie, the object of the affection of two boys, Tommy and Bernard, with much skill. Bernard was given the proper Johnny-on-the-spot spirit by Alan Bunce. Ben Johnson was a typical politically-controlled judge.

DANCE-SONG REVUE SHERIDAN FEATURE

Matt Shelvey is grand marshall of a fashion parade of steps and tunes that tops the Sheridan Square vaudeville bill. Astrid Lohger is featured. Johnny Murphy is funny in his "Phoney Conversation" offering. The Wilton Sisters present an act of song. Morton and Betty Harvey say a lot and sing quite a bit in their presentation, "The Spice of Life." Harry Martine, "The Juggling Jester," proved just that. The photoplay is "The Gateway of the Moon," featuring Dolores Del Rio.

HERB WILLIAMS IN ALDINE

Herb Williams, a veteran in the arts of stage jesting, handed out a large 30 minutes with his act, "From Soups to Nuts," in the Aldine yesterday. Williams, as usual, proved a show in himself. He still calls for the spotlight in his inimitable style. A couple of pianos fell apart about him. A cat walked out of one. He closed his act by proving he can play the ivories as well as dodge them. Packard and Dodge utilized the Italian dialect and played everything from a carpenter's saw to a automobile inner-tube. "The Red Carnation" offered dances, songs and quite a lot of comedy. Nellie Arnaut and her brothers mixed acrobatics with violin music. The Four Hartinis were responsible for an entertaining wire act. The photoplay feature, "Lovelorn," lives up to its advance notices. Beatrice Fairfax wrote the story. The sisters, Sally O'Neil and Molly O'Day, are featured.

Farce Is Offering of East End Players

"Getting Gertie's Garter," a farce by Avery Hopwood and Wilson Collison, is the latest presentation of Harry Schwartz's players in the East End Theater. Much applause and laughter greeted its performance last night. The story deals with a missing garter—Gertie's. It is vitally important that this article be secured as soon as possible. A search begins—and the result is one funny situation after another. Yonda Bald, a comparative newcomer in the company, is seen in a prominent role. Ray Rawlings and Grace Wilcox carry the romantic leads. Others in the cast are J. Arthur Gordon, who also directed the production; Grace Whitcher, Everett Johnstone, Beth Burke, Marcel Dill, Ed Downes, Ernest Kast, Philip Van Zandt and Mildred Lee.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Pittsburgh's "400" Forsake Togs and Rigors of Winter for Zephyrs in Southland and Abroad

PITTSBURGH is rather foggy and cold and uncomfortable most of the time these days, and who can blame anyone for hunting a more congenial climate, if he can do so? The South is exercising its strongest lure just now, and a great many of our local "400" are safely ensconced in their winter homes down there. We who are left behind may be envious of them, but perhaps just a bit more envious of those who have already left for trips abroad or are planning to go soon.

A few, even, are arranging to take trips all the way around the world, and some of our local folks are just completing such a tour. Among the latter is James Dickinson Rhodes, of Thorn street, Sewickley. With his daughter and son, Mary and Thomas, and their aunt, Miss Rhonda Edwards, he will arrive in western Europe in about six weeks, and Mrs. Rhodes will join the party there. She left Sunday night for New York and will occupy her apartment there until it is time to sail for Europe.

It had been hoped that there would be some entertaining, however small, for Miss Maude Royden during her brief stay in Sewickley, but it seems that it was impossible. Her life is a rigorous one, naturally, with the many lectures scheduled during her stay in the United States, and it precludes her making any social engagements. Miss Royden, you know, has been staying with the Ralph W. Harbisons in their home in Sewickley since her arrival on Sunday.

The rehearsal dinner for the Stone-Bailey wedding is set for tonight in the University Club, with Ellen's sister and her husband, the James Shirley Austins, and also the Shirley Plumer Austins, as hosts. Last night an attractively-appointed dinner was given for Ellen and her fiance, Charles Chester Bailey, of Oakmont, by Martha Green, who is to be one of the bridesmaids at the wedding. She entertained in her home in St. James place.

From Pasadena, Cal., comes word of an interesting wedding, with announcement that Isabella Hunter, daughter of Mrs. Orlando M. Hunter, and David Russell Williams, both of that city, were married recently. Mrs. Frank C. Hunter, sister-in-law of the bride, was her matron of honor, and her small niece, Jean Bella Hunter, was flower girl. Richard Rhodes was best man, and the ushers included Harold Wickersham and Barnett Atkinson.

The bride is a graduate of the National Park Seminary at Forest Glen, Md. She and her husband will live in Pasadena.

The marriage of Miss Helen Frances Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Wilson, of McKee place, and Mahlon Lloyd Dietrich, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Mahlon Lloyd Dietrich, of Harrisburg, was solemnized last night at 6 o'clock in the Wilson home by the Rev. T. B. Courtice, pastor of the Oakland Methodist Episcopal Church. The bride wore powder blue georgette and carried a shower of Ward roses and lilies of the valley. Her maid of honor, Miss Dorothy Nugent, appeared in brown crepe with a corsage of Ward roses and sweet peas. Harry Barnes was best man. A housewarming in the new home of the bride and bridegroom in Sheraden followed the ceremony.

Dr. Irene Davis Ferguson, president of the Pittsburgh branch of the American Association of University Women, and Mrs. Albert T. Morgan, president of the Pennsylvania-Delaware division of the A. A. U. W., left last night for Boston to visit the former's aunt, Mrs. C. H. Frasier, for several days. Later they will attend the North Atlantic conference of the National A. A. U. W. at Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Figley, of Dravosburg, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Lema Figley, and Alvin B. Crummy, of Dravosburg, which was solemnized November 21 in Dravosburg by the Rev. J. Alvin Hazlett, pastor of the Hartstown United Presbyterian Church. Mr. and Mrs. Crummy will make their home in Ridge avenue, Dravosburg.

The St. Vincent DePaul Society, assisted by the Ladies' Aid Society of St. Lawrence's Church, will hold a card party and reception tonight in the school hall, Penn and Atlantic avenues, for the benefit of the poor. Bridge, "500," euchre, Old Maid and Bingo will be played.

WOMEN WRITERS HEAR ADDRESS ON 'THINKING'

"You can demonstrate anything by statistics if you are a big enough liar," said Dr. Max Schoen, of Carnegie Institute of Technology, to the Women's Press Club yesterday afternoon. Dr. Schoen, who was speaking on "Why We Do Not Think Like Human Beings," showed how some types of thinking do not solve, but irritate certain problems. He referred scathingly to Dr. Albert Edward Wiggam, who, he said, is not a scientist, but an entertainer, and whose last book is "not a book, but a calamity." If all criminality arises from heredity, the cure is apparent—segregate or exterminate the types, Dr. Schoen declared, querying. "Where does crime begin—with the captain of industry who steals millions or the man who steals a little and gets caught?"

Partial thinking invades every walk of life, Dr. Schoen said, and discussed different types, among them the superficial, the prejudiced and the rationalized.

Mrs. Madeline Young Love presided over a short business meeting which preceded Dr. Schoen's talk. She also announced further plans for the book party and dinner with which the club will celebrate its thirty-seventh anniversary next Monday night. The affair will be held in the Woman's City Club, where the meeting yesterday convened.

The Wilson College Club of Pittsburgh is taking an active interest in the Riddle Memorial Building, the new dormitory on the Wilson campus that is to be dedicated at commencement next June. Old Pittsburghers will recognize the name of the late Henry Alexander Riddle, one of Wilson's most beloved trustees, in whose memory the new buildinng is being erected. Mr. Riddle was an early Pittsburgher, son of the Rev. David H. Riddle who was pastor of the Third Presbyterian Church here from 1833 to 1857 and the last president of old Jefferson College before its union with Washington in 1865. The local club will hold a Riddle Memorial benefit bridge next Friday evening at Webster Hall. Mrs. Chester A. Smith is general chairman.

An automobile accident, which demolished his artist materials, necessitated a change in subject for James C. Boudreau when he spoke before the Woman's Club of Wilkinsburg yesterday afternoon. Mr. Boudreau, who is director of art in the Pittsburgh public schools, was to have talked on "The Art Experience" and had planned to make a sketch in illustration. Lacking his materials for the "experience," he told the women something of the present trend of art in the public schools. Mrs. W. C. Graham was leader. A meeting of the drama department was announced for February 27 at the home of Mrs. James I. McLalin, Beech street, Edgewood. The members will discuss "As You Like It," a matinee performance of which they attended last week.

The writing of the French "moderns" is still influenced by the war, Dr. Andre Morize told Twentieth Century Club members yesterday morning in his talk on "Leaders of French Literature." Some write of the beautiful side—the love of country and the increased patriotism which was a result of the war and others write only of the tragic side, while still another class is writing only imaginative stuff in an effort to put aside war memories and effects. Bergson, Dr. Morize said, has influenced all the new writers and Bourget is the only one of the pre-war writers who holds any influence today. Gide's writings, like Henry L. Mencken's, whether right or wrong, are stimulating, he stated. Other interesting phases of the new French writings are the revival of the Roman Catholic faith and a revision in the poetical ideal, according to the speaker.

A formal Valentine dance will be held by the department of recreation in the Congress of Clubs, tomorrow evening. Mrs. Ralph C. Shaw, chairman of the department, is being assisted by Mrs. Thomas P. Otto, Mrs. William Powell, Jr., Miss Lillian M. Coleman, Mrs. Florence D. Kinney, Mrs. A. W. Stevenson, Mrs. S. D. Ehrman, Mrs. H. B. Holt, Mrs. D. F. H. McDowell, Mrs. S. S. Miller, Mrs. Svend Canarlis, Mrs. Walter R. Fleming, Mrs. Matilda Price, Mrs. W. H. Miller, Mrs. C. A. Bruckman, Mrs. J. C. Eckel, Mrs. L. C. Bruckman, Mrs. Marie Stone, Miss Helen Bennett and Miss Madeleine Ward. Karl Heinrich, as master of ceremonies, will lead the cotillion.

The Tourists had a full program yesterday when they met in the home of Mrs. C. W. Orwig, in Beacon street, for their regular session. Chester M. Wallace, of the Carnegie Tech drama department, spoke on "The Art of Drama." Miss Georgia Orwig and Mrs. R. M. Montgomery gave piano solos, Mrs. Caroline Mahaffey, contralto numbers, and a review of "The Stream of Travel" was contributed by Mrs. S. E. Dibble.

Songs by Miss Anna George and piano numbers by Mrs. J. R. McGregor and Mrs. Bertha Gross King made up the music for yesterday's program of the Pittsburgh Literary and Musical Club, which met in the Business Women's Club. Papers which were given by Mrs. William B. Epley and Miss Elizabeth Bell were on "Victor Emmanuel II and III" and "Genoa."

One of the largest audiences the Sewickley Valley Woman's Club has ever had was present in the Edgeworth Club yesterday to hear Miss Maude Royden speak on "Psychology and Religion." The ministers of the valley were among the guests and asked Miss Royden many questions which she answered in a way that added interest to the afternoon.

* * *

"Great Books of the World" is the subject upon which Mrs. Dulce Fiske Fairman will speak Saturday afternoon before the Irving College Club when it meets in the Congress Club House. Piano solos will be given by Mrs. Alcide Bourdon, of Greensburg. Mrs. D. Edwin Miller is to be hostess.

* * *

Its annual community tea, which this year will be a colonial affair, will be given Friday afternoon by the Athene Club of Charleroi, in the home of Mrs. J. Clyde Enos. A program of music and entertainment, including an address by Miss Irene Stewart, of Pittsburgh Carnegie Library, will be presented.

Miss Sara M. Soffel will address the Better Magazine Council of Allegheny County at a meeting next Tuesday morning in the Congress of Clubs.

Tito Schipa, premier Italian tenor from the Chicago Opera Company, sang before a very large audience in Syria Mosque last evening. The program at first glance seemed to be copied from Marion Talley's, and slumped considerably during the early half. After a few Neapolitan folk songs and some real classics, in which Schipa surprised us all, the public and soloist began to appreciate one another.

There was such difference between last evening's concert and Schipa's previous one. His voice seemed less brilliant and gay; at times, as in the Mozart Hallelujah given as encore, his legato disappeared almost entirely. In the Lakme air there was little suggestion of his wide operatic experience that might have projected the meaning of the song. But there came a change. And our audience was little aware of the reason—he sang two German songs that demand extremely fine musicianship, and delivered them in the calm contemplative style that shows a singing artist at his best. In those two songs of Schubert and Schumann, tone, a finely chiseled musical line, reverence for great music were present in a high degree. Schipa added immediately two charming English ballads, a Pastorale and My Lovely Celia, both of which extended the style he had by this time established.

The Spanish songs became more reassuring and the final aria from L'Arlesienne had all the intense and slumbering passion of that idyllic drama. Schipa was gracious enough to add O, Sole Mio and the popular Rigoletto air without which no Italian tenor's concert would be complete. Two songs and an encore for the pianist showed Schipa as composer of fluent though not too original melodies.

Frederick Longas was the accompanist and played several piano soli. It is right difficult to judge a player who gives only Spanish music. The music itself is so little pianistic and so full of intriguing and at the same time monotonous tunes, that any listener finds himself being misled towards amusement rather than judgment.

J. FRED LISSFELT.

SHARPSBURG MAN HELD ON FISH TRAP CHARGE

Said to have set a trap for fish in the Allegheny River at Nineteenth street, Sharpsburg, Ignace Pochulski, 35, of Main street, Sharpsburg, today was being held by borough police pending a hearing before Justice of the Peace James A. Hernon of that place. Pochulski was arrested by State Game Warden W. C. Shaffer when he was said to have gone to inspect a trap.

MINE RESEARCH EXPLAINED

W. H. Glasgow, state secretary of mines, was the speaker at a mass meeting held last night in Moose Temple under the auspices of the Western Pennsylvania Safety Council. Mr. Glasgow told of the research work that has been done in view of lessening mine disasters. Coal mine disasters entailing heavy loss of life are becoming fewer, and special attention now is being given to the smaller accidents, Mr. Glasgow said. Philip G. Fenlon presided.

SHAM OR TRUTH?
Which Shall Be Your Guide When Choosing a Piano?
Contrary to the offers appearing in public print, the rule of reason tells you that no piano of insured merit and value can ever be sold at a discount.
Pianos assembled for a special selling occasion are generally instruments that have been built to sell at a price with no regard to giving lasting satisfaction.
Therefore it is well to remember that a piano of distinction and quality is never offered for anything less than the standard price.
At the store of the C. C. Mellor Company you will find the finest world-standardized instruments obtainable—pianos that will give you lifetime service and that your friends will heartily recommend. Terms that will please you.

ADDITIONAL STAGE AND SCREEN NEWS

MARKS IN DAVIS MAKES MARK

Two outstanding features of the vaudeville bill at the Davis Theater this week are Joe Marks, a Hebrew comedian of mirth-provoking eccentricities, and Dave Apollon with his miniature Russian revue—put over with the assistance of a Filipino orchestra. Marks has the orthodox hat and dialect, but some new quips, and his dancing is the acme of dashing absurdity. Apollon gets both music and comedy out of an accordeon, achieves marvelous effects with seven guitar and mandolin players in the "Dance of the Hours," and in fact furnishes a regular tabloid Chauve Souris. Another interesting act is Clarence Downey's "Spooding Spooks," a well-worked version of the old Black Art illusion. Eddie Allen and Doris Canfield proved very amusing in their humorous skit, while Charley and Ruth Fiegler pleased with chatter and songs. Then there is an Argentine dancer, Hermanos Williams, who ought rather to be called a tango acrobat—his drop from the flies is a daring feat. The photoplay is "The Gateway of the Moon," in which Dolores del Rio is a Brazilian Indian maiden romancing among the sedges and tangles of Amazon River scenery.

Barthelmess, in Grand, Has Big Role

Richard Barthelmess has recorded another impressive characterization in "The Patent Leather Kid," shown on the screen of the Grand yesterday. "The Patent Leather Kid" is a gripping picture—about the best war photoplay yet shown. The story by Rupert Hughes, is about a pugilist—a fighter, too—whose manager makes him a slacker for business reasons. He goes into the war a coward but in the big emergency his ring courage comes to him and he emerges a hero. It is a picture that will thrill you and make you choke with emotion. It is Barthelmess at his best, receiving remarkable support from Molly O'Day. "The Four Americans," Indians in native costume, gave songs and dances as the stage feature, th bill being completed with "Topics of the Day," orchestral overture and the news in motion pictures.

ACADEMY BURLESQUE IS "BRIGHT EYES"

"Bright Eyes" is this week's burlesque in the Academy, much of the fun being provided by Harry Levine, a comic who sings, and Kitty Starr, comedienne. "The Chiropractor", "The Silent Drama", and a scene in Hollywood are comedy skits. Edna Somer sings "The Love Call". The Dailey Twins appear in a vocal and dancing act. In a scene laid in the Black Hills there is an Indian dance and an Indian jazz sheik, played by Kitty Starr. Tangee executes a classic dance, appearing in the character of a Hindu slave.

OLYMPIC HAS MENJOU AND VITAPHONE BILL

Three ukulele and steel guitar strummers, known as the Hoot Gibson Trio, head the Vitaphone bill this week in the Olympic. Other features on this portion of the program are LeVere and Handman, popular song singers, and a playlet with music, "The Night Court." The photoplay is Adolphe Menjou's "Serenade." Menjou is seen as a young musician, who neglects his young and faithful wife, after fame and fortune are his. Kathryn Carver is the wife. Other players are Lawrence Grant and Lina Basquette.

DANCE, COMEDY IN HARRIS

"Parisian Art" is the act that begins the Harris stage show this week. It consists of a number of posed studies and a dance specialty. DeMay and Moore, assisted by a company of four, are responsible for the headline act, titled "Youth, Comedy and Speed." DeMay and Moore dance. Other members of the company include a singing pianist, a dancing violinist and a singing team. Creedon and Davis offer a comedy skit, "I Could Smash You." Leon Melville and Evie Stetson give a musical act, the feature of which is Leon and his accordeon. The Four Casting stars romp up and down the stage and up and down in the air in an amazing manner. The photoplay feature, "Coney Island," sent yesterday afternoon's audience hand-clapping at the final fade-out. It is a romantic melodrama. Lois Wilson is the star. Other entertainment on the Harris bill includes a singing organlogue, a cartoon comedy and news pictures.

Norma Talmadge in "The Dove" in Penn

"The Dove" brought Norma Talmadge to the screen of the Penn yesterday in a picture that is full of action and one that gives Miss Talmadge a chance to range the scale from light comedy to the deeply emotional. Based on Willard Mack's play which was staged by David Belasco, with Holbrook Blinn and Judith Anderson, "The Dove," follows the stage version with fidelity. Miss Talmadge's charm and acting talent stand by her in good stead in this picture, in which she has strong competition for first place from Noah Beery. Gilbert Roland is likeable in the romantic male lead. "Way Out West" is the general title under which the stage acts introduce pleasing specialties by Jack Powell, trap drummer extraordinary; Holly Hall and Lang and Volk, singers; Mooney and Churchill and the Felicia Sorel Girls, dancers and the Dave Harman orchestra, in musical specialties.

"FADS AND FOLLIES" GAYETY BURLESQUE

The Gayety Company presented its burlesque entertainment yesterday under the title of "Fads and Follies." Songs that pleased included "Somebody Else," by Mina Bernard, "My Blue Heaven," by Earl Root and Miss Billie Lamont, and "Rosy Cheeks," by Eddie Bruce. Jim McCauley, Jack Lamont and Billie Wallace played the comedy roles in the comedy sketches. Estella Nack was featured in song and dance specialties, alone and with Eddie Bruce. The chorus had an elaborate number in the Lantern March in a Chinese setting. Tom Whalon was the principal in "The Face on the Barroom Floor."

"ABIE" PLEASES IN PITT

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH

Well, they're with us again—Abie, Rosemary, Solomon Levy, Patrick Murphy and the rest of those interesting character creations of Anne Nichols. Yes, they're with us again, and as usual, they've brought the smiles, chuckles, laughs and guffaws.

It is a capable company of players that is typifying these people of "Abie's Irish Rose" in its newest engagement in the Pitt—its fourth, by the way, and heralded as the farewell one.

Its welcome last night was an enthusiastic one. The laughs were big and broad. And the rather large audience was generous with its applause at the close of the second act.

There is little need to delve deeply into the plot. Surely everyone by now knows the story of Abie Solomon, a Jewish son, and Rosemary, an Irish daughter, who become man and wife.

Phil White, as Solomon Levy, the father, makes a good job of his Levy, even as he does of his son's wedding. No orange blossoms for him. He goes one better and decorates with real oranges. He admits that he doesn't care how much he spends and, besides, the oranges can be eaten after the ceremony. Patricia Quinn is responsible for a likeable Rosemary. And a playgoer can have no quarrel with Ted W. Gibson's Abie.

Then there are the Cohens. As portrayed by Eddie Pascal and Bertha Walden, they're responsible for not one laugh, but many. And Mrs. Cohen still is talking about her operation. Rosemary's father, Patrick Murphy, was capably played by John McCabe, and both Thomas McGrath, as Father Whalen, and Alfred Clarke, as Rabbi Samuels, met with high approval.

It takes a year for the two fathers to become reconciled—a year and babies. The end finds them celebrating Christmas and grandchildren together.

"Abie's Irish Rose" is, as it has been acclaimed so many times, a great laugh piece. More than that, under the veil of comedy, 't aims to teach a lesson of tolerance.

NOTED WOMAN PREACHER HERE DEFENDS CIGARETS

Miners Get Food and Clothing

JEANNE EAGELS WANTS TO QUIT MRS. COY ROLE

WON'T QUIT SMOKING, SHE SAYS

By ALMA SIOUX SCARBERRY.

Yes, it's true! Agnes Maude Royden, English lady parson, smokes cigarets. And considers it no one's business but her own!

Her answer to those imploring her to stop because of the "evil effect it may have upon the youths who trust and follow her," is:

"I will not stop smoking cigarets! I can't consent to the idea that religion is a matter of trifles and I believe that the cleavage between the younger and older generation on religious matters is due more to their insistence upon emphasizing trifles than to any other reason."

In other words, charming and brilliant, Maude Royden uses a cigaret now and then to take a polite slap at those who "strain at gnats and swallow camels." She believes that God and religion are so much bigger than a cigaret that one has absolutely nothing to do with the other.

At the Edgeworth Club, Sewickley, after her lecture yesterday afternoon, she talked quite frankly of companionate marriage, and smoking. Miss Royden is studying "our so-called prohibition" and will tell us more about it later.

Of companionate marriage she said, with a hopeless gesture:

"I've been misquoted so much that I want you to tell the truth! Tell what I really feel—which is this. Love is love. And two people who love and marry do so believing that nothing can come between them and destroy that union. If they go into wedlock with the idea that they are going to fail, or may fail, I very much fear that is just what they will do—immediately. Any marriage but the old-fashioned kind isn't marriage. Give it some other name and call it sex license."

One of the greatest sins of the older generation, according to the sentiment of the little Guild House minister is the way it persecutes the younger. The lack of understanding on the part of age, the desire to drive and brow beat youth. The unwillingness of older persons to admit that they themselves were young and perhaps precocious and even reckless before they learned life and tired of butting their heads against convention's stone walls.

And the modern woman, the very modern working lady, amuses the Rev. Royden considerably.

WOMEN, BE SUBTLE

"She is trying to ape man," grinned the smoking parson, "until she is positively funny sometimes. My but she is sure of herself! And as for me, I've never been so sure men were ever superior and held the reins of the universe in their hands. It looks to me as though woman can get farther by being a little more subtle and not making quite so much noise about her freedom and victory in the business world. "If she is not careful she may defeat her own purpose."

American girls seem much older than English girls to Miss Royden. She regrets that our little 17-year-old girl seems like a grown woman, sophisticated and experienced.

But she believes that Americans are brilliant, the best dressed, and are the most capable business women in the world. Our business methods over here are amusing and a bit mystifying to the English. As the Rev. Royden put it laughingly:

"I expect you Americans to have so completely measured and calculated the world from a business angle soon that you'll put a factory where the next earthquake is going to be. And we'll come along and see you turning hundreds and thousands of cars out of the debris. It must break your hearts to see all the energy going to waste!"

Well, whether everyone agrees with Miss Royden or not, they'll forgive her when they hear what a fine send-off she gave us. It was:

"You Americans are embarrassingly polite. I am never interrupted with cat calls of dissent here no matter what I say. And in England—mercy!"

After all we have heard about "those rude Americans," 'tis a refreshing bit of blarney.

CARAVAN BRINGS SMILES

START 'SOUP LINE' FOR MINE TOTS

WASHINGTON, Pa., Feb. 7.—Business and professional men of Monongahela today announced that a "soup line," primarily to feed school children would be started tomorrow morning, a room in Chess street having been engaged for the purpose.

The "soup line," the first maintained in Washington county in a long period, is due to the coal strike. At a meeting of prominent citizens of the district, it was decided conditions were so serious that some action must be taken.

"We cannot let people starve to death, particularly the children," was the opinion of the gathering.

The "soup line" will be operated from 11 a. m. to 1 p. m. each day. The first meeting was held Saturday and at a second yesterday further plans were made.

It was revealed before the committee that many children wore tattered and soiled clothing, some of them so thinly clad that they suffered severely from the wintry blasts. A large number was discovered to be attending school without breakfast.

Daniel Mentzer, 64, of 445 Marshall avenue, suffered a broken left collar bone when struck by a hit-and-run motorist in Marshall avenue near his home last night. He is in St. John's Hospital.

SULLIVAN OPENS CAMPAIGN

The opening gun in Alderman P. J. Sullivan's battle to oust Congressman John M. Morin will be fired tonight at a meeting in Eintract Hall, Thirty-sixth street. The ward chairmen, aldermen and other political notables of the Thirty-fourth Congressional District have been invited. Among those asked to attend are Councilman James F. Malone and Councilman Charles Anderson.

An indorsement of Sullivan's candidacy is expected at the meeting. His formal announcement will follow in a day or two. Morin is reported as being in Washington or Philadelphia, but is expected here before the end of the week. There is a possibility that he may retire from the congressional field and enter as a candidate for delegate-at-large or as United States Senator.

PAY INCREASES PRUNED

County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern, voting with County Controller Robert G. Woodside, at a meeting of the county salary board today, succeeded in blocking Commissioners Joseph G. Armstrong and E. V. Babcock from granting a $15 a month increase to 114 sub-assessors in the tax revision office.

Commissioner Babcock moved to grant the increase, which was seconded by Commissioner Armstrong. Voting, McGovern and Woodside answered in the negative, Commissioners Armstrong and Babcock voting for the increase. The vote was a tie and the motion lost.

Controller Woodside then moved that the salaries of the assessors be increased to $10 a month. McGovern seconded the motion, which was carried when all three Commissioners and the Controller voted for it. The increase boosts the assessors' payroll $14,880 a year. The victory was the first one to be scored by Commissioner McGovern since he assumed office.

Salary increases amounting to $32,300 were granted by the board at today's session. Since the board convened yesterday over $80,000 in salary increases has been granted. Five new positions in the tax revision office, with annual payroll of $15,900, were created.

ELECTION BODY TO MEET HERE

When the Pennsylvania Elections Commission meets in this city February 14, it will receive a delegation of officers of the Allegheny County Elections Association who will place before it data designed to aid in drafting future election legislation.

Prosecution has been brought against 200 election board members of last fall's elections as a result of information gathered by the two organizations. The county elections association has offices in the House building. Thomas J. Cavanaugh is its principal investigator.

3 STREET CAR LINES TIED UP

A piece of steel which fell and tore down three feeder wires of the Pittsburgh Railways Company yesterday afternoon resulted in street car service being delayed for 45 minutes on three downtown loops. The steel was from a building being razed in Thirteenth street at Liberty avenue. The cars tied up were on the Third avenue, the Diamond street and the Ninth to Twenty-first street loops.

FAKE DRY AGENT BACK IN JAIL

Robert (Red) Crystal, one-time Turtle Creek saloonkeeper, went back to jail today, his parole from a 14-month sentence revoked by Federal Judge W. H. S. Thomson.

Convicted of posing as a dry agent and "shaking down" bootleggers, Crystal was paroled while his appeal was before Circuit Court.

Today Assistant Federal Attorney J. A. Richardson asked that the parole be vacated because of the pending appeal and because Crystal had not reported to his parole officer, Rollo H. McBride.

Jesse King, former state policeman, and Joseph L. Flavin, former dry agent, convicted with Crystal, are in the penitentiary.

CHICAGO, Feb. 7.—Jeanne Eagels, noted actress, today refused to confirm or deny reports that she was preparing a divorce action against her husband, Ted Coy, former Yale football star. Reports of the impending suit began circulating late yesterday, after Miss Eagels had conferred for the third time with her attorney, Benjamin Ehrlich.

Later, associates of Miss Eagels announced that it is the plan of the actress to seek a divorce in chambers during the latter part of this week. Mr. Coy, it is said, will not contest.

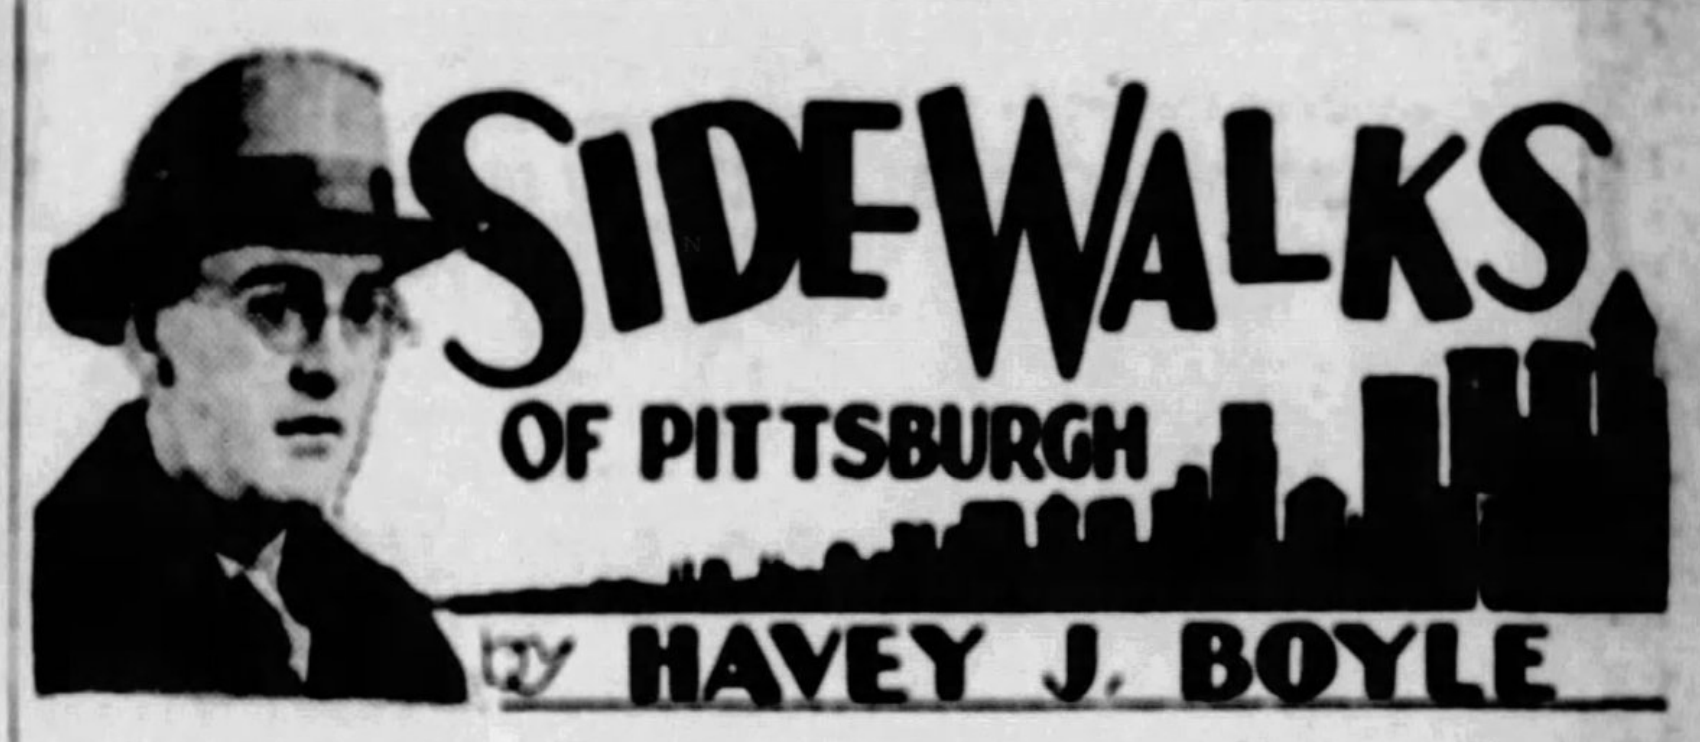
Attorney Ehrlich, it is understood, has explained to Miss Eagels that she may sue for divorce if she can establish a Chicago residence of a year's duration, or if she can prove that the action on which the divorce is sought occurred in this city.

In her present vehicle, "Her Cardboard Lover," Miss Eagels plays the role of a wife who seeks to win back the affections of a lukewarm husband by making him jealous. Anthony Bushnell, introduced to Miss Eagels by the Prince of Wales, is the "Cardboard Lover."

The actress and Coy were married in 1925 at the Stamford (Conn.) home of Fay Bainter. The wedding occurred soon after Coy's first wife, the former Sophie D'Antignac Meldrim, divorced him.

SQUIRE FOR 25 YEARS RESIGNS AT AGE OF 88

After having held office for a quarter of a century, Justice of the Peace Andrew Jackson Bell, 88, of Tarentum, resigned yesterday. Ill health was given as the cause. Justice Bell was wounded twice in the Civil War. During his 25 years as justice of the peace he performed 200 marriages, disposed of 20,000 cases and issued 10,000 hunting licenses.



by HAVEY J. BOYLE

A NEW semester of school began yesterday. Many Pittsburgh children, having reached the ripe old age of six years, tumbled out of soft, warm beds to leave home for school for the first time. It was the first big adventure in their lives.

Education is a necessity, of course, but from the fledglings now embarking on the long voyage to erudition it removes some of the blessings of a cloistered life.

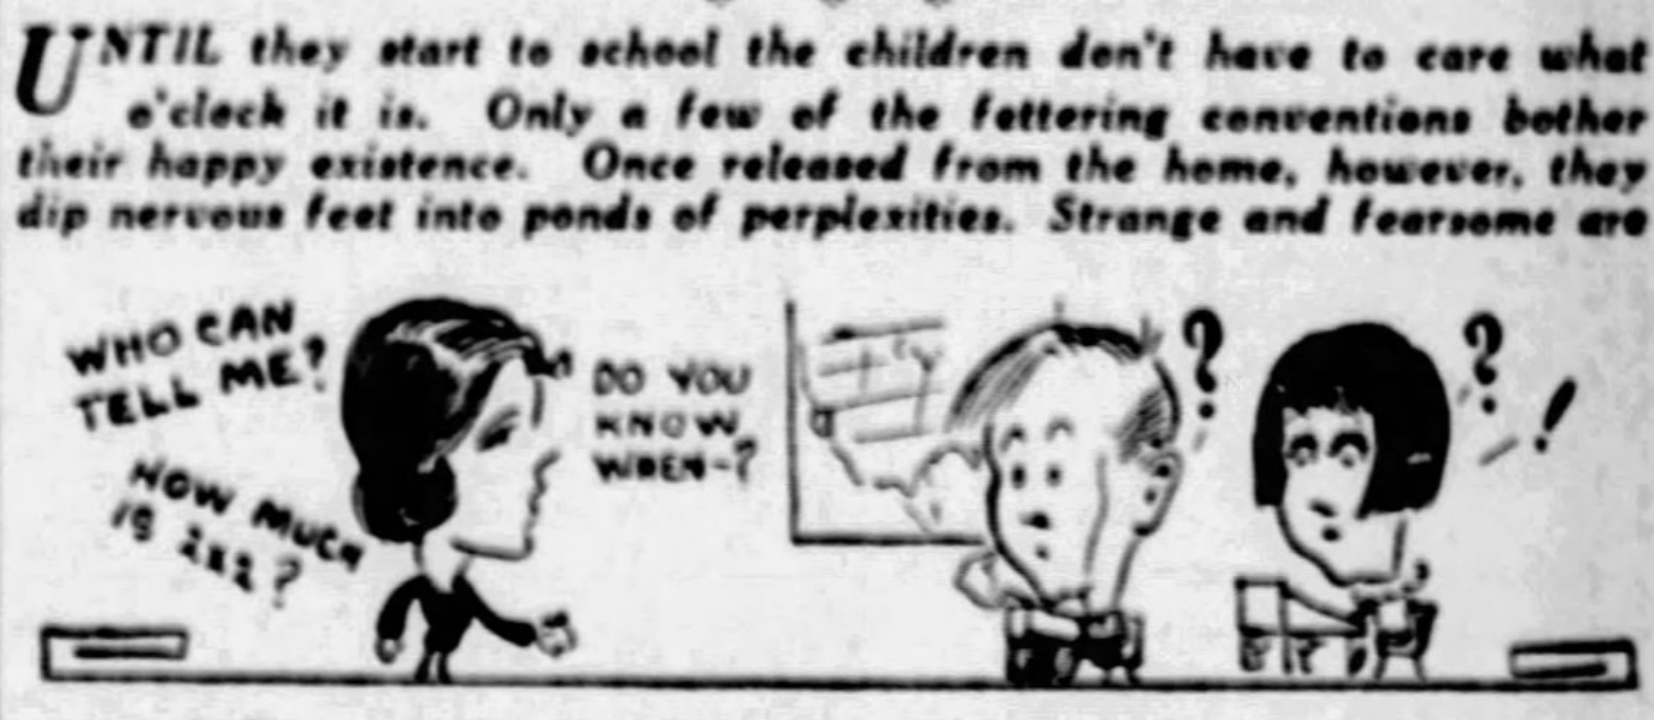
THE schools not only implant the rules and rites of learning, but for good measure throw in measles, mumps, a touch of worldliness, and a new outlook to supplant the one whose horizon was no farther away than mamma's apron strings.

* * *

UNTIL they start to school the children don't have to care what o'clock it is. Only a few of the fettering conventions bother their happy existence. Once released from the home, however, they dip nervous feet into ponds of perplexities. Strange and fearsome are some of the new rules they listen to with wondering ears. If it is the first injection of education which may develop latent genius, the first school day is also the first onslaught of a rough world upon a great and superb innocence.



WHO CAN TELL ME?
HOW MUCH IS 2x2?
DO YOU KNOW WHEN-?

THE picture of a little girl waving tiny hands in farewell as she steps off none too bravely toward the new adventure is to persons who ponder just as striking as is an old print of a pilgrim waving farewell to his fatherland.

Sidewalks as well as oceans bring a radical change in existence. The faltering footsteps of tiny recruits in the newest battalion of Education's Army are as impressive and eloquent as the romance of Kipling's files on parade.

In inviting Gene Tunney to address a college class on Shakespeare, William Lyon Phelps is not exactly a trail-blazer in arousing interest in the works of the bard. Pittsburghers need go no farther than the South Side to find precedent in unusual ways to teach appreciation of Shakespeare.

I AM GOING TO SEE HAMLET TONIGHT!

In Jones & Laughlin's there was a heater, some 15 or 20 years ago, who above the roar and din of the mills, heard whisperings of the classicists. He learned to quote nearly every striking line in Shakespeare.

When a repertoire of Shakespeare came to the local theater he translated the plots into the idiom of the day, using the better-known names of Tom, Mike and George to supplant Hamlet, Laertes, Polonius and others.

It sounded to the listeners like rare melodrama. To local galleries they would take themselves to revel in the plots as outlined. Some would come back to the mills the next day untouched and feeling they had been swindled, but others administered to by this strange missionary would come back eager to learn more of the wondrous plays.

THE sad experience of another theatrical man was recalled by a recent article here touching on that memorable moment of the American stage when we acted as supernumerary for Mantell. Elmer Grant writes to tell of the time he was a program boy in a local theater. Keller, Thurston's tutor, was at the time extracting the usual rabbits from the coat-tails of awed customers.

Before the curtain went up the program boy, knowing little of occultism, walked across the stage only to be entangled in skeins of wire. Mr. Keller observing the scene, through anger, experienced a moment of inspirational magic. With nothing up his sleeve and only a few mystic words, Keller applied an educated toe to the program boy's rear and transformed the boy from a place on the stage to a distant point in the wings.

CUT OUT IN WILL, SHE SUES AND GETS $5,250

A verdict of $5,250 was awarded Helen Swreczykowski against C. W. Syprzewski, executor of the estate of Dr. Leon Sadowski, former Squirrel Hill physician, in a suit in Common Pleas Court yesterday for wages as a housekeeper.

The plaintiff is a niece of Dr. Sadowski and worked as a domestic in his home from 1916 to 1924. It was testified that he never paid her for her services, saying he would "remember her in his will."

Dr. Sadowski died in 1926 and, it was testified, there was no provision for his niece in his will. She entered suit for $10,900, being represented by Attorney Clyde Grubbs.

Aim To Live 100

An Easy System To Follow For People Half Dead Around the Age of 40.

We only begin to think of our health when the human machine staggers and falters under a load of disease.

Millions of people who suffer needlessly from constipation, sour stomach, indigestion, liver, kidney and impure blood ailments should follow this proven advice: Go to your druggist, ask him for a box of the famous Bulgarian Herb (Blood) Tea. Here is what the tea is guaranteed to do for you. It will remove the toxic poisons from the bowels, stimulate and tone the liver, flush and cleanse the kidneys, kill off stomach gases, improve and enrich the blood—thereby putting your entire system in a first class healthy condition.

Begin right now to purify your system. Put back power and health into your blood. Take a cupful of the rich vitalizing juices of these precious herbs at least once each week. No cheating. Remember, once a week regular, that's the system. In a very short time you will begin to feel like a new person.

Further, just to break up a cold quickly and avoid "Flu" or pneumonia, Bulgarian Herb (Blood) Tea is worth ten times its small cost. Remember, see your druggist at once. Don't put it off.

Lily Finds an Untrained Servant in Her Mother's Home

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

LILLY LEXINGTON, spoiled daughter of the CYRUS LEXINGTONS, is engaged to marry STALEY DRUMMOND, a rich bachelor much older than herself. She is fond of him, but realizes she does not really love him the day after she accepts him, when she becomes instantly and violently infatuated with a taxicab driver whom she sees down town when she goes to meet her chum, SUE CAIN. Forgetting all about Sue, she jumps into his cab and he drives her home. She learns that his name is PAT FRANCE and that he owns his own cab in a company headed by his friend, ROY JETTERSON. She marries Pat. Lily tried, and their domestic ship sailed smoother for a few months. One day Lily met SUE CAIN, an old friend, on the street. Sue invited her to a card party. Lily, without funds, went to a store and tried to charge some clothes to her father. She was informed her mother had left word that "Mrs. Patrick France could not charge things to Mr. Lexington." Staley Drummond has been buying her clothes and furs and tries to persuade her to divorce Pat and marry him. Pat breaks his arm and Lily nurses him. She leaves Pat and goes back to her own home.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

THE softness of it was soothing to Lily as she slipped into it. It was like slipping back into this easy, effortless life itself.

She threw the old bungalow apron she had worn all day over the foot of the bed.

"You may have that, Hester Belle," she said. "Not to wear, please. But for dust cloths. Skirmish around now and see if you can find me some food—and some coffee."

She sat down before the dressing table, with its soft lights, and picked up a perfume atomizer that stood on it. She began to spray herself with it.

"I'll never smell of raw onions and furniture polish and yellow laundry soap again," she thought with relief. "I'll be waited on now until I die—thank heaven."

Oh, it was good to be here again, she told herself.

"How did I ever leave it?" she wondered. "I must have been crazy!"

She thanked heaven once more that she had come to her senses at last. "And I don't miss Pat a bit," she went on thinking.

She honestly did not. Not a bit. Not the least bit.

CHAPTER XLVI.

LILY did not miss Pat the least bit that first night in the Montpelier road house.

It seemed so wonderful to her just to be there again that there was no room for anything in her mind but an enormous relief.

After the hard work and poverty of Pat's little flat it was like sinking into a deeply-cushioned chair to rest.

All around her the big comfortable house, with its rich furniture, its thick, soft rugs, and its velvet drapings, was like a box of cotton wool.

"I couldn't have believed life would ever be so easy as this again," she sighed comfortably to herself, as she settled herself down on the couch before the living room fire and stretched out her slippered feet to the blaze.

No supper to get. No dishes to wash. No milk bottles to be set out on the back porch. No alarm clock to wind. No coffee pot to be filled for the morning . . . Nothing to do. Not a thing!

"It's heavenly," she thought, lolling back in the pillows of the couch and idly turning the pages of a magazine.

At seven o'clock Hester Belle, the slatternly little maid, came in and announced that her dinner was ready.

"I'll have it here before the fire on a card table," Lily told her, without looking up from the magazine she was reading.

"But the table in the dining room is all set," said Hester, sadly. "Water poured and every thing ready to be served."

Lily set her jaw. "I told you I'd have my dinner in this room on a card table," she repeated, and her voice was as chilly as the sound of cracking ice.

From the corner of her eye she could see that Hester Belle was still in her faded calico apron and cap.

"Put on a black dress and apron before you serve me, too," she added. "Does Mrs. Lexington let you wait on table looking like this? I'm sure she doesn't."

Hester Belle looked blank, and her gooseberry-colored eyes seemed more like gooseberries than ever. Her jaw dropped, and she shook her head.

"I do the cooking only, when Mrs. Lexington is home," she explained. "I cook swell."

Then she threw a wistful look down the hall towards the kitchen door. "Dinner all ready. Be spoiled if you don't eat it pretty quick," she said sadly.

But Lily was firm. She had had too many months of badly-served meals on cotton tablecloths to put up with anything but exactly what she wanted now—and for 15 minutes she had been thinking how pleasant it would be to eat here before the cheerful little fire in the grate, with a magazine at her elbow and cushions piled behind her back.

"Put on something clean and bring the food in here," she said stubbornly, and with a rumbling sigh Hester Belle vanished from the doorway.

When she was gone Lily sat wondering why her mother had turned the whole house over to such a creature in her absence. She seemed so incompetent.

"I suppose she did it to save money," she decided, and then she went on thinking how wonderful it would be to be married to a man who could afford a whole army of servants. All of them properly dressed, too!

She closed her eyes and could see herself having breakfast in bed, all wrapped up in a silk bed-jacket, with her hair in a cloud of gilded copper around her head, when she was married to Staley.

Yes, she would have breakfast in bed every morning, and real rose bath crystals in her tub, and the new sweet-pea perfume to spray all over her clothes before she put them on to go to some gay party or other.

And she never would put her hands into greasy gray dish water again, so long as she lived, either. She never would have blisters and bruises and broken nails from hard work again. Never!

"I certainly never am going to marry for love again," she solemnly promised herself as she watched the maid set up a little lacquered card table and cover it with a lace-edged cloth.

No, the thing for a girl to do—the really smart thing—was to marry money and then settle down to spend it in doing and having all the things she wanted to do and to have.

This business of marrying a man because he thrilled you was all very well while the honeymoon lasted. But honeymoons always come to a too-soon end, and then there has to be something else to take its place—and what better thing was there than money?

"Nothing! It's the only thing that can really give you a good time in this world," Lily decided. "Love can't do it."

Her marriage to Pat had taught her that, she told herself. No one ever had been more in love than she had been with Pat France, and no one had ever been a more unhappy, poverty-stricken wife than she had been! Love wasn't enough to build happiness upon.

As she sat there, drinking the best cream-of-celery soup she ever had had in her life, the telephone rang in the pantry at the end of the dining room, across the hall.

It startled her. It was so many months since she had had a telephone in the house that the sound of it was unfamiliar to her—and because she had been without one for so long the very tinkle of its bell seemed like a luxury.

She heard Christine hurrying to answer it, and then there was a long silence.

She finished her soup and ate the crackers on the plate beside it. She picked up the little green glass bell that Hester Belle had set upon the table and rang it.

There was no answer. No sound of Hester Belle's flip-flopping slippers coming back across the dining room.

She rang again. More dead silence followed.

Furiously angry by this time, Lily threw down her napkin and jumped up from the table. . . . What was the matter with that idiot of a girl, anyway? Didn't she realize that she was serving a meal, and that it was 20 minutes since she had carried the soup in and set it down.

"She's probably talking over the phone to some sweetie of hers," Lily said to herself. "Although I can't imagine a creature like that having anyone in love with her. If anybody is, he must have a fine eye for knoick-knacks."

She stood still at the baize-covered door of the pantry and put her ear to the crack. . . . She had been right. The maid was talking to a "sweetie" beyond all doubt, and she was crying as she talked to him.

"Sure, I'm nuts about you," she was saying between sobs, "but who wants to bring up three kids that belonged to some other woman? My mother told me I should say that to you next time you talked to me—and I'd say it anyway, myself—" Her voice ended in a storm of smothered sobbing.

"D-d-don't call me up no more and take my mind off—my j-job!" she went on. "This woman's daughter is here, and she's as mean as dirt. I ain't going to have no time to talk to you while she's here, and anyawy, I ain't going to talk to you ever again."

Lily heard her bang the receiver up on its hook, and then she came flying out of the pantry, wiping her eyes and her nose as she came. She gave a little shriek when she saw Lily standing there.

"Oh, you scairt me!" she gasped, and then she went white. "Did you hear what I was saying on the phone?"

Lily nodded. "I'm sorry I was as mean as dirt to you," she said. "You're in trouble about something, aren't you?" She was surprised at the feeling of sympathy and understanding that came welling up into her heart as she looked at Christine, with her swollen nose and red wet eyes.

Hester Belle admitted that she was, and then she told her story with many pauses and blushes. It seemed that two men were "after" her—one who was a handsome young widower with three children, and one who was not handsome, but who was a bachelor with money.

"He's got his own house and butcher shop," she explained, "and I'd have it soft if I married him. But I don't like him. I like the one what's got three children, and not a penny to his name, Mrs. France. But my mother's made me promise not to take him and slave my life away looking after him and his three brats, and I know I'd be crazy if I did marry him."

Love's Embers

Absorbing Sequel to "Revelations of a Wife"

By Adele Garrison

THERE was no opportunity for Noel Veritzen to make any reply to my suggestion that it would be a very good thing for him to pretend an interest in Eleanor Lincoln. Mary Harrison, running lightly across the lawn, had reached the car almost before I had time to finish my softly spoken warning. I doubt, however, if he would have answered me even if Mary had not appeared. The look of bewilderment which spread over his face told me that the idea I had presented was so new and startling to him as to preclude any response until he had mulled it over.

If Mary had heard my advice and decided to emphasize it, she could not have seized her cue more skilfully. As she skimmed over the lawn to the car she unfolded a long black veil with which her grandmother occasionally protects her hat and face when motoring. Without the sign of a smile she stopped by the side of the car, and gravely tied it over her own hat and face, then climbed to the seat beside me, completely ignoring Noel, in the rear seat.

"Granzie lent it to me," she explained complacently. "I wanted to be sure of making my eyes behave if we should happen to run across that spiffy young man with the wolfhound. It never would do to display the slightest interest in him, I can see that plainly. My Family and Friends—" she mischievously achieved the effect of large capitals—"would suffer in their dignity and their anxiety for the state of my affections."

A man of much less keen perceptions than Noel Veritzen could have seen that she was making open game of him, and that she was cockily sure he would not resent it. But I knew that she was trying to elicit from him another disapproving comment concerning the young man with the wolfhound, and I determined that she should not succeed. I waited until she had quite finished her little speech, then spoke in an amused drawl with an undernote of firmness which I invariably use when she is in need of restraint.

"If you are quite through with this little vaudeville turn, will you please tuck your 'props' in the pocket of the car?" I asked. "I do not like a floating veil near my eyes when I am driving."

She jerked it loose with an abruptness that boded ill for the endurance of her grandmother's veil, and spoke with shamefaced quickness.

"Sorry, Auntie Madge! I'll be good, honest!"

"You'd better be," I admonished her, laughing, but I knew that she understood there was disapproval beneath my apparent merriment and would curb her inclination to mischief for a few minutes at least.

The rest of our drive to The Larches was taken in silence.

As we turned into the driveway of The Larches I saw that I must park my car before I reached the veranda, for directly in front of the steps was standing a smart and exquisitely appointed roadster. I thought I recognized it, and when we reached the veranda my impression was confirmed. Seated just beyond Miss Lincoln, who had risen and come forward to receive us, was one of the few women of the smart summer colony at Southampton with whom I had casual acquaintance. She was the owner of the roadster, and I decided swiftly that she had driven it to The Larches for the express purpose of bringing with her the young man with the wolfhound who was standing just behind Eleanor Lincoln.

What is High Blood Pressure?

High blood pressure means that the blood stream and system have become loaded with body poisons. The heart strains, sometimes to the breaking point, to throw off its tremendous burden. Nature needs help—and a ten-day treatment of Lithuric Salts nearly always shows unusual benefit. Waste products of fermentation and decomposition are thoroughly but gently swept from the intestines, the liver is stimulated, the kidneys assisted and thus all organs of elimination are caused to function properly. The valuable, natural mineral salts and fruit acids of Lithuric Salts make a highly palatable, effervescent drink, and because it is the one salt compound which contains neither sodium chloride or sugar it is perfectly harmless to take. Ask the May Drug Co. or any other good druggist for a large, inexpensive bottle of Lithuric Salts today and try it. Satisfaction or your money back guaranteed.

Play safe. Guard against chronic stomach trouble with Bi-nesia. All druggists sell 100 Bi-nesia tablets or large bottles of powder for only 50 cents and guarantee unconditional satisfaction or money back.

HOW TO DARKEN GRAY HAIR

Makes One Look Younger.

Men and women who used to be called Grandpa and Grandma are now setting the styles by darkening their gray hair at home.

For instance, J. A. McCrea, a well known Californian, recently made the following statement:

"Anyone can prepare a simple mixture in five minutes that will darken gray hair, and make it soft and glossy. Merely take a half-pint of water, add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and ¼ ounce of glycerine.

"These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at trifling cost. Apply to the hair twice weekly with a comb. It does not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and will not rub off."

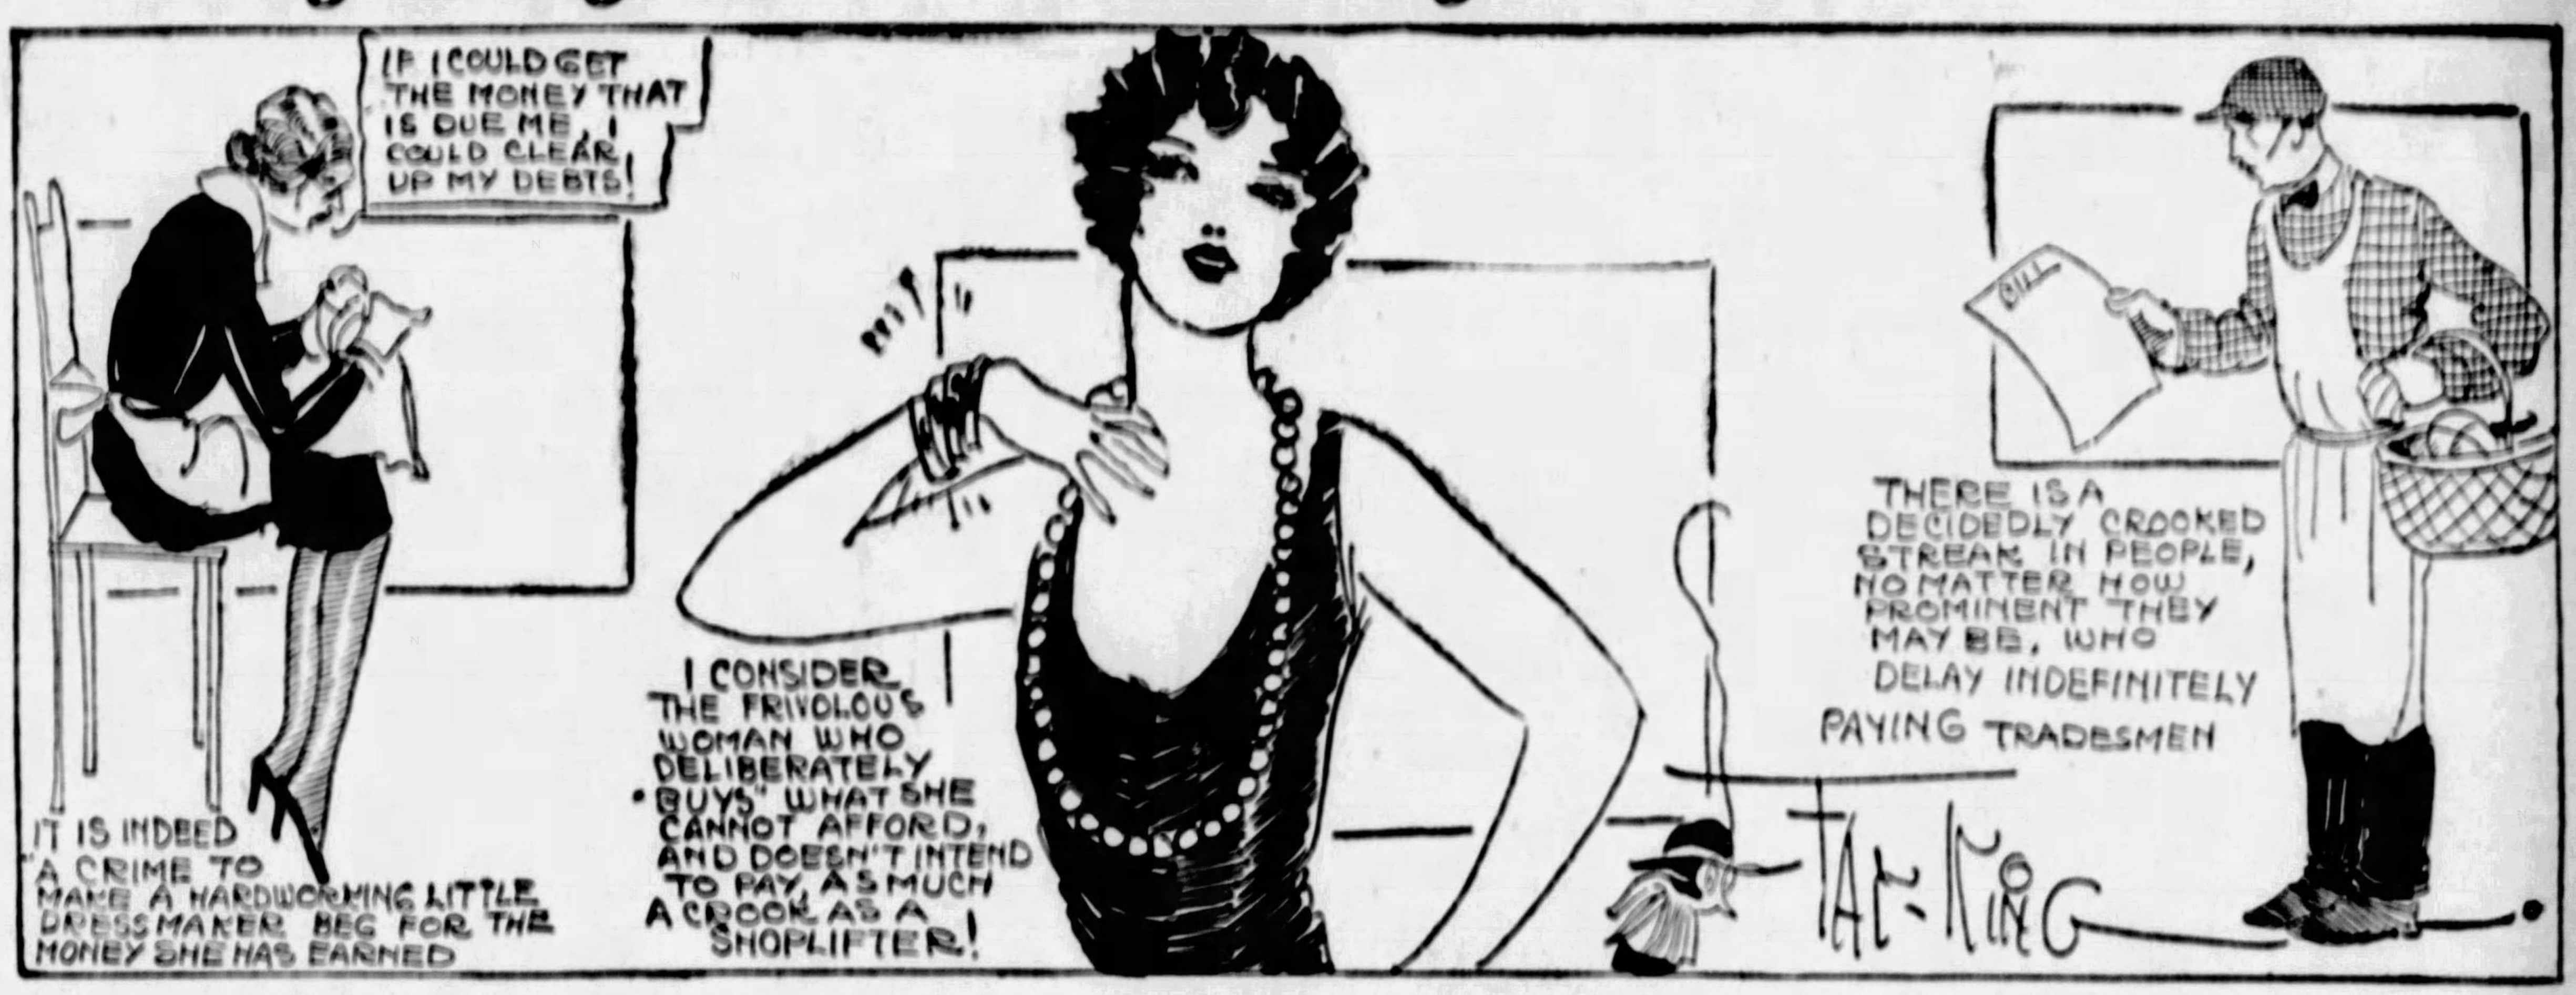
Fay King Likens Slow Payers to Real Crooks



IF I COULD GET THE MONEY THAT IS DUE ME, I COULD CLEAR UP MY DEBTS!
IT IS INDEED A CRIME TO MAKE A HARDWORKING LITTLE DRESSMAKER BEG FOR THE MONEY SHE HAS EARNED
I CONSIDER THE FRIVOLOUS WOMAN WHO DELIBERATELY "BUYS" WHAT SHE CANNOT AFFORD, AND DOESN'T INTEND TO PAY, AS MUCH A CROOK AS A SHOPLIFTER!
BILL
THERE IS A DECIDEDLY CROOKED STREAK IN PEOPLE, NO MATTER HOW PROMINENT THEY MAY BE, WHO DELAY INDEFINITELY PAYING TRADESMEN
FAY KING

By FAY KING

IN MY estimation persons who deliberately refuse to pay their bills are crooks of the worst type!

I don't care how exclusive the circle may be in which they move. I don't care how many handles they may have to their visiting cards. The man or woman who deliberately puts off and puts off paying the honest ones who have done honest work for them is not one whit better than the footpad who steals a workingman's wages.

There are many trades folk who are kept waiting and begging for the money which is due them while the fashionables who owe it squander again and again the amount they owe and ignore and refuse to be bothered with these bills.

It is rarely among poor persons that this happens, and that no doubt is one reason why they are poor. They contract only necessary debts and never rest until they pay them off as fast as they can.

But there is a type which assumes fashionable airs, and does not hesitate to postpone paying small bills, which in turn greatly embarrasses those who depend on collecting what is due them to maintain their own standard of prompt payment.

It is surprising how many times the butcher and baker and little dressmaker must call and in humiliation and as delicately as possible beg and plead for what has long been overdue them.

And the injured air and final condescending favor with which these slow pay persons settle is no less an evidence of crooked tendencies than those displayed more honestly by crooks who are fingerprinted and serve time.

MEDITATIONS of a MARRIED WOMAN

by HELEN ROWLAND

WHY MEN FEAR MATRIMONY

EVERY man suffers from a sense of guilt toward woman, declares a famous neurologist—particularly toward the woman he loves.

* * *

That is why he so often spoils his wife, and even why he lets the gold-diggers mulct him, without a protest. It's a sop to his conscience.

* * *

So THAT'S it, is it? We always thought "that guilty feeling" came afterward, when he discovered that he had spent the rent money or the price of the new car his wife wanted, on a peroxide blonde.

HELEN ROWLAND

Be that as it may, the average man DOES go through life with a guilty feeling toward the woman who loves him. That is what causes that slumbering look of apology or resentment you see in a married man's eyes.

* * *

A woman can make a man feel guilty just by a casual glance at his cravat, or by picking a fleck off his coat lapel. He never knows WHAT she has discovered—but he knows there's enough!

* * *

Five minutes after she has decided to marry him a woman elects herself a man's guide, monitor, conscience and censor; and from that moment he goes through life like a prisoner at the bar, constantly explaining himself and forever on the defensive.

* * *

It is "that guilty feeling" that prompts a guilty man to bring home roses in order to lull his wife's suspicions—and make an innocent man AFRAID to bring home roses for fear of arousing his wife's suspicion.

* * *

It is "that guilty feeling" which fills one man with an inferiority complex and makes him afraid to drive his own car, tie his own evening tie or express his own opinions, for fear he will be promptly criticised. And it is the same feeling which makes another man tramp and shout around the house, and bully the servants just to show a woman that he ISN'T afraid of her.

* * *

It is "that guilty feeling" which makes one man afraid to look at a woman in his wife's presence—and which drives another man from a nagging wife straight to the arms of any little dumb-bell who will console him, comfort him and tell him how WONDERFUL he is.

* * *

Somehow, a woman has the faculty of making a man FEEL guilty, even when he is as innocent as a lamb. He always has the sub-conscious suspicion that she is going to "jump on him" for something, accuse him of something, or correct him for something.

* * *

That is the cause of the sullen defiant look you so often see in a man's eyes, the moment he enters his wife's presence. That is what fills him with alibis, nerves, dyspepsia and deceit. And that is what makes the average bachelor fight matrimony to the last ditch.

* * *

Lots of husbands have the look of naughty schoolboys, constantly trying to please, fool, or placate "Teacher."

* * *

Even when a woman DOESN'T suspect her husband, he always suspects that she suspects him. And that is why the psychologists say that women are "pests."

Avoid Sudden Anger; It Is Destructive to the Body

IS THERE any relationship between the cultivation of patience and good health? Can the failure to practice patience do you harm.

DR. COPELAND

When you buy a new automobile, the dealer tells you to be extremely careful the first five hundred miles. You must not go faster than 25 miles an hour.

To go faster might cause serious friction in the machinery and result in permanent harm to the car. You are glad to heed the advice.

You are told not to start in high gear and not to call on the car for sudden and terrific spurts. There must be gradual increase of speed and graduated demands upon the machinery. That is why we find "low," "second" and "high" speed arrangements in the gears. Without them the machinery would be ripped apart and ruined.

What is anger? It is exactly the same as throwing a machine into high speed. Sudden, unexpected and outrageous demands are made on the heart, the lungs, the muscles and nerves.

You can stretch a small rubber band until it encircles a large package. But the stretching must be gradually and carefully applied. In a sense the rubber must be coaxed. A sudden pull will break it.

Anger and giving way to anger place a sudden strain upon tissues unprepared for it. The blood vessel wall is placed under sudden and terrific pressure. What happens? The tissues give way and there is a rupture of the vessel.

There is nothing surprising about this. To permit your automobile to run into a deep cut in the pavement causes the tire to strike bottom with a bang. No wonder you have a blowout.

Certinly, you have no right to treat your body in a similar way. To give in to an outburst of temper is just as likely to blow out a blood vessel, with bleeding into the brain, or elsewhere. A fit of anger may end life.

Many a case of ruptured blood vessel in the eye comes from sudden anger, with flushing of the face, bounding pulse and increase of blood pressure. I have seen several such cases.

The self-poised, long-suffering and patient person is not likely to have such troubles as these. It is the outburst of anger that results in trouble.

Of course, a perfectly normal blood vessel wall is not likely to give way under such conditions as I have suggested. But when we get along in life we may not have perfectly normal blood vessels. There is a tendency toward hardening, one of the symptoms of increasing age.

To cultivate patience, then, is to guard those precious blood vessels and to protect yourself against the dangers of rupture. Not only does it do this, but to be patient leaves the mind clear and more alert. Patience is indeed a virtue.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Wednesday, February 8

Shall we take good at God's hand and not be content to take evil also?—Job.

CONFLICTING forces are in sway, according to the astral testimonies. While the lunar trine to Mars may incite to a high degree of initiative and enterprise the stubborn opposition of Saturn will call for all the indomitable courage and resolution born of the Martian ray. Persistency and determination should save the day. Be careful, in personal contacts, against treachery.

Those who birthday it is may have a year of success and advancement by exerting all the determination and resources against stubborn positions and obstacles which are likely to arise. Caution in personal contacts is urged.

A child born on this day should have great enterprise and resources which it may need to surmount some tenacious obstacles in life. It should be well equipped with courage and initiative for this.

MARMOLA Prescription Tablets
The Pleasant Way to Reduce

For the Lovelorn -:- By ELEANOR GALE

Patsy Lou

DEAR MISS GALE:

I am a girl in my twenties and I have been keeping company with a boy whom I like very much. One night we got to talking about ages and he told me he was three years older than what he really was an I believed him because he looks to be about the age he stated. He asked me my age and I told him a year younger than what I really was. Now, Miss Gale, I found out from a friend of his, his exact age, which makes me a year and five months older than he. Ever since I found this out, Miss Gale, I have been troubled and can't keep my mind at peace at the thought of my being older. What should I do? Quit going with him? Should I tell him I am older? Thank you for your advice, Miss Gale.

PATSY LOU.

Forget about it. That is not such a great difference in ages, and his effort to make you believe him older than you is proof that he likes you quite well.

Bubbles

DEAR MISS GALE:

I have been reading your column for some time and think your advice is very good. I agree with you on the character of a girl and no not drink or smoke. I am in love with a boy who has been with me for about a year. A few months ago we moved from the place where he lives, and on one of his visits here he claimed that I mistreated him, for when he was about to leave I did not let him kiss me goodby. Do you think it was necessary. When he returned to the place I used to live he told my old girl friends a lot of lies about me and said many things which I did not like. I did not see him for two or three weeks and the other evening I met him at a dance. He asked me to dance and I did, although I knew I shouldn't have. He asked me to forgive him for saying these things and said he said them in a hot temper. He wants to come and see me and be on the same terms as before. Should you swallow your pride and let your friends laugh at you and go back to him? Is love greater than pride? He says he loves me and always will. Do you think he would say things like that ifk he really like me?

BUBBLES.

I should hesitate some time before depending on the love of a man who can say untruthful things about you. However, if you really care for him, it might be all right to accept his apology and start over again.

RECEPTION FOR PAULINO

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 7.—Jack Dempsey, the former heavyweight champion, will head the reception committee which will greet Paulino Uzcudun when he arrives here tonight for his February 28 fight with George Godfrey.

NOTES of the BOXERS

NO SHOW has been arranged for Motor Square Garden next Monday night. Matchmaker Johnny Ray had Jack McVey, Negro welterweight of New York, and Joe Simonich of Butte, Mont., in mind, but McVey's manager, Billy McCarney, refused to accept terms. It is likely that Willie Davies will be one of the headliners of a new program.

Battling Levinsky is carded for a series of bouts. He is to meet an opponent yet to be named at the St. Nicholas Rink, New York, next Monday night, boxes Jack Gagnon at Boston the following Friday and then meets Herbert Mendez at New Bedford, Mass., on Washington's Birthday.

The judges and referees voted unanimously in all of the preliminaries at Motor Square Garden last night and then made a three-way split in the main event. It was the first show in the local arena under the new rule of the commission which prevents announcement from the ring of the various individual votes.

Tug Phillips of Fayette City and Tommy Milton of Toledo and formerly of Herron Hill box the 10-round windup at McKeesport Thursday night, with Young Rudy of Charleroi and Jack Banty of McKeesport meeting in another 10-rounder. A battle royal will open the card.

Willie Davies boxes Billy Kelly in a 10-round bout at Chicago tonight.

Teddy Welch, McKeesport lightweight, boxes Sig Keppen of Beaver Falls in the eight-round windup of a show under the auspices of the Eagles Club of East Liverpool, O., next Monday night. Walter Dickerson and Freddie Boylstein will meet in the six-round semi-final.

George Tomosky of Wilmerding, brother of Andy, has returned from Toronto and Buffalo, where he has been boxing recently, and is ready to meet any of the flyweights in this section. He has boxed Alec Burlie and other good ones and is especially anxious to meet Jackie Rodgers here.

Dave Shade and Joe Anderson box at Los Angeles tonight, with the winner promised a bout with Mickey Walker for the middleweight title.

Johnny Windsor, local welterweight, boxes Frankie Palmo of Cincinnati at Cincinnati tomorrow night.

Phil Goldstein was nosed out by Al Bryant of Newark, N. J., at Newark last night in a hard battle. Phil scored a knockdown in the fifth round. Next Monday night the local lightweight meets Freddie Mueller at Buffalo.

Emmett Reese of Ellwood City likely will go under the management of Al Lippe, veteran manager of boxers of Philadelphia, who also handles Battling Levinsky.

First Place For Winner

By JULIUS LEVIN.

EMBARKED on a winning excursion that numbers six successive victories, including a well-earned decision over the McKeesport Cyclers, the Enoch Rauh passers will attempt to take sole possession of first-place in the second round of the Allegheny County League race when they meet the Duquesne Lafayettes, league champions, at Columbus Temple tonight.

All hopes of the Lafayettes to win the second-round laurels of the County League depend on the outcome of tonight's league fray with the Rauhs. A defeat for the Lafayettes at this stage of the season will make it virtually impossible for the remaining contenders to pass the Rauhs, while a victory for the champions will clear their path to the laurels considerably.

FIRST-ROUND CHAMPS

The Duquesne Lafayettes won the first-round championship without trouble and as a result are assured of a place in the title playoffs at the close of the season. The Rauhs, after a miserable showing in the initial round, have staged a remarkable comeback and are the favorites to win the honors of this round.

The Rauhs have a double incentive to spur them on against the Lafayettes tonight. The Scarlet Hurricane is one of the few teams to defeat the Rauhs on their home court and it is the intention of the Columbus Temple passers to turn the tables tonight. Another reason for the Rauhs' determination to take a fall out of the champions is the fact that they will be out to register their seventh successive victory.

One of the largest crowds of the season is expected to pack the Columbus Temple floor for the battle. The Lafayettes boast a large supporting cast, which follows the team wherever it plays. Manager L. D. Schmidt of the Rauhs has made arrangements to handle a large crowd of Duquesne supporters.

The game brings together two of the best teams enrolled in the County League this season and indications are that the battle will be a close affair from the start to finish.

DRIBBLES

Duquesne Light meets Reliance Life and Kaufmann's opposes Carnegie Steel in the two C. & I. League games scheduled at the Fifth Avenue High School tomorrow night.

The Young Men's Club of McKees Rocks, boasting five victories and no defeats, would like to arrange games with North Side Community House, Mifflin M. E., Betker Scholastics, Hickory and others in this class. Write G. H. Smith, 1103 Church avenue, McKees Rocks, or call Federal 1601 between 7 and 8 o'clock and ask for Brannan.

St. Catherines of Beechview entertains the McKees Rocks Business Men and the Succops meet the Simons at the Market House in the two P. & O. League games scheduled tonight.

The Falk Memorial passers have replaced the Homestead Sokols in the Major League. They start their league program at Falk Memorial Thursday night.

One of the largest crowds of the season is expected at the Y. M. H. A. tomorrow night when the Goldenson Vanities and the Y. W. H. A. girls clash in a return game. The Vanities defeated the Y. W. H. A. sextet at the Market House recently and the Bellefielders are reported eager to turn the tables. The Y. M. H. A. team also is active tomorrow, meeting the Johnstown Y. M. H. A. passers.

DE VOS BEATS COURTNEY

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 7.—(INS.)—Rene De Vos, the Belgian middleweight, is a bit nearer a bout with Mickey Walker for the world title today if the result of the Belgian's bout here last night with George Courtney of Oklahoma means anything. At that, the majority of the fans who saw the two battle through 10 rounds that grew furious as the final rounds wore on thought the Oklahoma cowboy should have received the verdict, but the judges agreed on De Vos.

LATZO IS VICTOR

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Feb. 7.—(INS.)—Pete Latzo, idol of the anthracite region, and Maxie Rosenbloom, will be rematched for a return bout early next month, it was announced here today after Latzo won a referee's decision over the Harlem battler in 10 fast rounds here last night. One judge called the fight in Rosenbloom's favor and the other called it a draw. Referee Jimmy Herriham gave the fight to the Scrantonian.

GENARO CHAMP AGAIN

TORONTO, Feb. 7.—(INS.)—Frankie Genaro, of New York, was perched at the top of the "come-back" trail today. The former world's flyweight champion won the National Boxing Association flyweight title by defeating Frenchy Belanger, of Toronto, in a fast 10-round bout here last night. Genaro outboxed and outfought the titleholder all the way. At the finish the Canadian was badly battered.

RYAN-HARVEY WIN

CANNES, France, Feb. 7.—Miss Elizabeth Ryan, of Santa Monica, Cal., and Miss Harvey of England, won the women's doubles laurels in the Gallia lawn tennis tournament yesterday. They defeated the Misses Platt and Radcliffe, 6-3, 6-2.

Babe Ruth 34 Years Old Today

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—The Babe is 34 years old today.

Once the bad boy of baseball, the mightiest slugger of all time, has entered a new era of prosperity and is now healthy, wealthy and happy.

Up until 1921, Ruth had a hard time making his $52,000 salary last him through the winter. Every January used to see Babe making it for the Yankee offices to borrow some money off his next year's pay.

But Babe changed his way, and since 1924 has saved $120,000. He has invested $50,000 in an annuity fund which will pay him a handsome return annually when it matures in a few years.

JACK THROUGH, TUNNEY SAYS

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—(AP.)—Gene Tunney is back in New York rather doubtful whether he will be able to get the two bouts he wants this year because he feels that Jack Dempsey never will fight again.

Returning from Miami Beach last night, the heavyweight champion outlined his plans for the year, disclosed his reasons for believing that Dempsey is through with the ring and said that regardless of whether he appeared in one or two fights this year the promoter probably would be Tex Rickard.

"There is no sane reason for believing that Dempsey's retirement is not genuine," said Tunney. "I believe he is convinced he will be exposing himself to grave danger of permanent injury if he ever again engages in a boxing match and for that reason has decided to abandon boxing. I do not agree with the popular belief that Dempsey's retirement is part of a publicity or ballyhoo scheme, because I refuse to recognize the necessity for any widespread publicity. A championship bout is a championship bout regardless of the amount of publicity that it receives."

SCOUTED BY FLYNN

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—(INS.)—Leo Flynn, who trained Jack Dempsey for his last two bouts, is among the vast majority who refuse to accept Dempsey's retirement as official. Flynn said today he expects to hear from Dempsey within a few days and also he expects to handle the old Manassa Mauler for another Tunney fight next fall.

DR. MARKS GOES UNDER KNIFE

Dr. William L. Marks, school physician, head of the physical training department and assistant football coach at Carnegie Tech, who underwent an appendicitis operation at the Presbyterian Hospital at 12:30 o'clock this morning, was reported well on his way to recovery at noon today.

In addition to guarding the physical welfare of the Tartans, Dr. Marks serves the Pirates as eliminator of ills each spring when they are in training at Paso Robles, Cal. Because he was anxious to start West with the Pirate squad on February 16, Dr. Marks insisted on having the operation performed without delay. Although his condition is described as excellent, it is not thought that Dr. Marks will join the Pirate tourists until February 24, at which time the second Bucco squad is scheduled to depart for Paso Robles.

HOCKEY

FOUR in a row is the objective of the Pirate skaters when they stack up against the Chicago Black Hawks in the Windy City tomorrow night. With consecutive victories over Boston, Les Canadiens and New York Rangers, Odie Cleghorn's ponies are primed for the Hawks and are confident of running their streak up another notch at the expense of the lowly Hawks.

Notice particularly the tremendous stride to the barrier and the sharp step down.

SPORT COMMENT by JAMES J. LONG

TWO years and more have gone by since Sam Rice, the Washington center fielder, performed the rather paradoxical feat of catching a home run, and Earl Smith of the Pirates got only a time at bat for hitting the ball out of the lot in the fourth game of the 1925 world series, but the debate as to whether or not Rice really made the catch

VETERAN HAS EDGE ON RING SKILL

By HARRY KECK.

Sun-Telegraph Sports Editor.

THEY called the Sandy Seifert-Battling Levinsky 10-round windup at Motor Square Garden last night a draw, with one judge voting for Sandy and the other for the Battler and the referee deciding on a dead heat. The crowd said it with boos, not only at the finish, but intermittently throughout the mill.

It was a slow affair, even for heavyweights, but it was hardly

Pitt Trims Colgate For Eleventh Win

HAMILTON, N. Y., Feb. 7.—The sterling offensive of the Golden Panthers of Pitt, led by Paul Zehfuss and Stash Wrobleski, Pitt's pint-sized stars, swept aside the best laid plans of defense of Colgate's varsity five here last night, and the Panthers hung up their eleventh straight consecutive victoryy. The score of the game was 47-38.

The undefeated Pittsburghers took the lead from the start, and with Zehfuss tossing in four fine goals in the first half, led the locals 23-16 at half-time. Colgate never had a look in, being unable to pierce the defense of the Pittsburghers and were forced to relay on long shots to get scores.

In the second half, Reed and Hyatt took up the good work started by Zehfuss and Wrobleski and ran Colgate ragged. Both Reed and Hyatt bagged four goals each, with Wrobleski continuing his fine work started in the Army game Saturday by getting six field goals.

The Panthers scored 8 points to Colgate's 5 at the foul line. Coach Carlson inserted Cohen, McMahon and Fisher into the lineup in the second half, which did not slow up the Panther attack in the slightest.

Set Duke Contest Back

By JESS CARVER.

THE scheduled Tri-State Conference basketball game, involving the Direful Dukes of Duquesne University, and Waynesburg's Yellow Jackets, previously arranged for Waynesburg tonight, has been set back a day and will be played tomorrow at the same spot. This will bring all of Pittsburgh's college teams into action on a single night, as Pitt and Tech play in the Tartan gym on the morrow.

The Panthers will arrive home some time tonight from Buffalo and Niagara Falls, where they repaired after trimming Colgate last night. With less than 24 hours to prep for the Tech game, Tartan adherents can look forward to a closer game than was offered the last time Pitt and Tech met on the court.

YALE RETAINS JONES IN ADVISORY CAPACITY

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Feb. 7.—(INS.)—Although T. A. D. (Tad) Jones will not coach the Yale football team next season, the methods which he inaugurated will be retained. This was assured by the appointment of Jones last night as chairman of the graduate advisory committee on football for 1928.

The coach for 1928 will be picked by the committee, and indications today were that the new mentor will be a member of the present coaching staff. Marvin Stevens, '25, and Charley Comerford, '18, were mentioned freely today as outstanding candidates for the post. Both formerly starred for Yale on the gridiron.

MEETING OF APPEALS BODY NOT HELD

By TOM BIRKS.

ORGANIZED soccer football in Western Pennsylvania was given the run around last nightt when a special meeting of the appeals committee of the local governing body, called for the purpose of settling the now famous case involving W. J. Kerr, who was suspended two years ago by the association, failed to materialize. Secretary Parks stated that he would take full blame for the failure of the committee to convene. The meeting had been ordered by the United States Football Association.

The meeting was scheduled for the office of ex-president Carson in the Benedum Trees building, and at the appointed hour committeeman Tom Clark arrived, and so did Kerr. Kerr had been notified earlier in the afternoon by Secretary Parks that the meeting could not be held as it was impossible to get the members together.

Later in the evening at the cup committee meeting Carl Meisenberg and Tom Clark, in the absence of Ivor Hopkins, who it is stated is also a member of the committee, asked Parks to hold the session. The West Penn secretary replied, "when Kerr replies for a rehearing it will be held."

It is quite possible that the national body will take drastic action for this open defiance of its

U. S. Tennis Stars Ask to Refrain From 'Glaring'

By Universal Service.

LONDON, Feb. 7.—American lawn tennis players engaging in the Wimbledon and other British tournaments will "be asked to refrain from glaring at a linesman who in their opinion has given a wrong opinion." This decision, it is understood, has been taken by the British Lawn Tennis Association, which is planning to ask the American Lawn Tennis Association to consider a resolution to that effect.

Such rules have already been enacted by the English Lawn Tennis Association governing English players.

JACK SLATTERY, Jack Hendricks and Wilbert Robinson were the only managers to mingle with the "schedule-makers," according to the younger Dreyfuss. Ketchel Fails To Play for Sianos Threatening to leave the hall at Columbus Temple unless the Sianos agreed not to use Monk Ketchel against them in a P. & O. League game last night, the Reliance Life passers succeeded in preventing the appearance of the South Sider in the Sianos' lineup.

Ketchel, signed by the Sianos last week, is ineligible to compete in the P. & O. League, according to the league director, who warned the parties involved not to go through with the game last night if the Sianos attempted to use the player in question. Ketchel appeared in the uniform of the Sianos, but was not called upon to play. The Sianos won the game after two extra periods.

ST. MORITZ, Switzerland, Feb. 7.—(AP.)—"Forty-four flat" for 500 meters was the time several watches caught O'Neil Farrell, the American ice speedster, on the Olympic ice today. This was exactly Charles Jewtraw's winning mark in the event at Chamonix in the 1924 Olympics.

mandates. Especially when the committee notified Kerr to be present for the hearing.

CUP DRAW MADE

Important business was transacted at the cup committee meeting. In the semi-finals of the West Penn Senior cup the Pittsburgh Internationals will meet Heidelberg on February 25 at the Westinghouse High School field, William Hamilton will officiate. Pittsburgh Rovers will meet the German Sport Club on the same grounds one week earlier, February 18, Brannigan to referee. Both games are scheduled for 3 p. m.

In the semi-final rounds of the West Penn junior championship Primrose will meet Bridgeville Owls at Heidelberg February 26, Verish to referee. The other semi-final will find Donora Thistles meeting Thoms Run at Heidelberg February 19 with Bryden handling the game.

The cup committee ordered the secretary to send a communication to referee Hamilton requesting his appearance at the next meeting of the committee, under present conditions it is quite possible that Hamilton will ignore the letter, and transfer it to his association.

Secretary Parks intimated that next Saturday's meetings will have the same status as the session last Saturday—that of being illegal, and that ex-president Carson will not attend to fight the charges brought against him, stating he had left for Cuba.

Just when it will be possible to get together an appeals committee meeting is now a matter of doubt. Representative Tom Clark announced at the close of last night's session his retirement from active part in the game. His resignation will take effect immediately. Now that it is very apparent that the body has no recognized head, the committee drawing up the charges should elect a president pro-tem without delay to take over the reins of office.

Pete Scott," quoth the treasurer. "We intend to send Pete to camp along with the batterymen in order that Manager Bush can study him and help to bring out his receiving traits. Glenn Wright, who played with Scott in Kansas City, when Pete was a catcher, is quite convinced that Scott can make a go of it in this position."

WHAT a break it would be for the Pirates if Scott were to blossom into a peppery, dependable catcher! There is a crying need for a backstopper who can walk up to the barrier and sock the ball from the right side. Pete is big enough to do this trick; moreover, he would be the fleetest catcher in the league.

* * *

THE House of Dreyfuss has been smiled on by fortune in the matter of surprising phenoms. The story of the Traynors, Cuylers, Wrights, Waners, Kremers is a tale replete with baseball romance.

* * *

SMITH and Gooch are normal .300 batters, but neither was close to his form in 1926. Gooch expects to have a big season this year and perhaps Oil, of the Ozarks, will come back with the same kind of a bat that punished all opponents in 1925 and 1926.

* * *

BOTH Smith and Gooch, however, are left-handed batters who are strictly on the defense when a Rixey, Petty or May goes to the mound. So there will be balm in the Pirate camp in the event of a show of skill on the part of the swift Mr. Scott from Stockton, Cal. Meantime, the Pirate officials will be willing to negotiate with any of the David Harums of the circuit.

* * *

SAM DREYFUSS' contention relative to a dearth of dependable receivers is interesting, if true. The Pirate receiving set is not the best in the land in its present makeup. The Cardinals have an ace in O'Farrell; the Giants are fairly well set with Taylor, Cummings and Hogan, while the Cubs appear to have the topnotch staff in Hartnett and Gonzales.

SPORT COMMENT

by JAMES J. LONG

as allowed by Umpire Cy Rigler breaks out anew at regular intervals.

Billy Hanna, the veteran scribe of New York, has revived the argument by asking Rice himself if he really caught the ball. This was Rice's answer. "I'll tell you just what I have told everybody else who has asked me about that play. I had the ball in my hand when I toppled over among the fans on the other side of the short fence, and I had it in my hand when I got up and climbed back. That is what I told the umpire at the time, and that is the only answer I've ever made to the question."

RICE'S reply is so evasive on the real point at issue that it amounts practically to a confirmation of the claim made by the Pirates and their supporters that Sam dropped the ball when he fell over the short fence and that he either picked it up again himself before he arose or one of the bleacherites recovered it and handed it to him.

It will be observed that Rice doesn't say he didn't drop the ball. He merely says he had it in his hand when he toppled over the fence and that he had it in his hand when he got up and climbed back. He is careful to avoid any reference to what happened between the time he fell over the fence and the moment that he arose again. He doesn't deny that he muffed the ball.

Chick Hafey.

IN THIS connection it is timely to report how a certain player who was a Senator in 1925 replied recently to a Pittsburgher's question about the disputed catch. "Rice had the ball going over the fence, but dropped it on the way."

The general interpretation of such a play is that when a player runs into a fence in taking a fly ball the collision with fence is part of the play and that it is not a legal catch if he drops the pellet.

It is also recalled that a friend of a Pittsburgh player, who occupied a room in a Washington hotel adjoining the room of Nemo Leibold, then with the Senators, reported that after the game he heard several of Buck Harris' players chortling with glee in Leibold's room and felicitating one another upon the fact that they had "got away with a big one that time."

MANAGER BILL McKECHNIE of the Cardinals, who is quietly completing preparations at his home in Wilkinsburg for the spring training trip of the St. Louis club, says he has received very encouraging private reports about the condition of Chick Hafey, who underwent an operation in a San Francisco hospital for sinus trouble and defective vision. "The published report that the surgeon reported the operation a complete success, was the truth," said McKechnie yesterday. "We have been assured that Hafey is O. K. again and that his vision is greatly improved. It will mean a great deal to us to have Hafey in top form again for the 1928 season and it will help our club in every respect."

HELD back for many years because the local institutions did not have large enough halls to accommodate the increasing attendance, college basketball has come into its own here, and its remarkable growth is attested by the manner in which it is drawing at Pitt, Carnegie Tech and Duquesne.

George Keogan.

New evidence that the college floor sport has soared to heights this winter never before reached in Pittsburgh is found in the unprecedented interest manifested in the coming of the famous Notre Dame team for a game at Carnegie Tech on Friday night, February 17, and a battle with Pitt at the Panthe Stadium on Saturday night, February 18.

THAT both games will be witnessed by capacity crowds is assured. The Pitt game in particular is stirring the fans by reason of the remarkable records made by both the Panthers and Notre Dame this season, and the Blue and Gold management reports that it could easily sell 10,000 tickets for the contest, but is limited to 4,000 by the capacity of the stadium court.

IT APPEARS that George L. Keogan, basketball coach of the Hoosiers, who was coach at Allegheny College several years ago, is making Notre Dame as famous in basketball as Knute Rockne has made the South Bend university in football.

Last Friday night Notre Dame was defeated by Michigan State, 28 to 16, but that does not assure a victory for Pitt here Saturday week by any means. It was only the fourth defeat for Notre Dame in her last 49 starts in basketball.

Out of a total of 86 games played since Keogan became coach, the Indiana floormen have won 66 and lost only 20. Of the 20 defeats 16 were suffered in the first seasons. Keogan's teams have twice won the Western championship and have placed a man on the all-Western five every year. They have won 21 out of 28 games against Western Conference quintets.

The only game dropped to a Big Ten team out of the last 11 played was lost to Northwestern a month ago.

RECENTLY the citizens of Long Beach, Cal., raised a purse of $1,000 in gold and presented it to Morley Drury, the Southern California basketball star, and brother of Herb Drury, local hockey player, at a banquet given in his honor.

Morley Drury.

Since then someone on the coast has raised the same point against Drury that was raised against Bobby Jones—that acceptance of the cash gift by the athlete would mean professionalizing himself.

However, the University of Southern California evidently does not share this view, for it is not only keeping Drury on its varsity athletic teams, but is making him more prominent than ever in that respect. For instance, he has been selected as manager of the 1928 baseball team of the university and will pilot the team to Japan. Drury is a candidate for the second base job on the team and will be in the lineup when needed.

Will Rule Officials

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—After 22 years' service, the central board has abandoned its task of creating the machinery for the selection of football officials for some 60 eastern colleges and nominated Walter R. Okeson of Lehigh University as its successor.

If the board's suggestions are carried out, Okeson will select the officials for virtually every college in the Middle Atlantic and New England states.

The Lehigh man acted in a similar capacity last year for a dozen of the larger Eastern colleges, including Army, Navy, Princeton, Yale, Columbia, Penn State, Syracuse, Pittsburgh, Dartmouth, Brown, Harvard and Pennsylvania.

Representatives of this group met here last night, formed a permanent organization to be known as the Eastern Association for the Selection of Football Officials; retained Okeson as commissioner of officials for the next five years, and at the suggestion of the central board, announced itself ready to extend this officiating service to any or all colleges in New England and the Middle Atlantic States.

STAGG TO REFEREE MEET

CHICAGO, Feb. 7.—(AP.)—Coach Stagg of the University of Chicago will referee the Illinois Athletic Club track meet Friday night. A large field, headed by Dr. Otto Peltzer, the German half-mile champion, is entered for the meet.

LEVINSKY-SEIFERT FIGHT DRAW

anything other than should have been expected with a 37-year-old veteran appearing in one-half of the engagement. Levinsky has lost all of his speed afoot and retains only a bit of shiftiness, but he more than makes up for this loss with his ring smartness, and, truth to tell, my score sheet showed him the victor at the finish. I called the first and last rounds even, gave the second, third, sixth, eighth and ninth to Levinsky and credited Seifert with only the fourth, fifth and seventh.

One of the judges, Frank (Bull) Brown, scored eight rounds for Seifert and the first and eighth for Levinsky. The other judge, Jim McLaughlin, gave Levinsky six rounds, Seifert two and two even. The referee, Joe Keally, split the sessions five and five.

LEVINSKY TOO TRICKY

Seifert tried hard all the way to make a battle of it, but it seemed the harder he tried the worse he ran afoul of his opponent's caginess. Levinsky showed all of the clever tricks of the trade, even down to the seldom seen right hand uppercut as a counter punch. That's one that the old-timers used to excellent advantage, but it's seldom seen these days. The old Battler also jabbed with precision and sidestepped and came back with rights to the body as Seifert rushed. He always was mixing up his stuff and kept Sandy puzzled. On the ropes he continually tricked the younger man, almost invariably sliding off and pinning Sandy against them.

The bout was an interesting one from Levinsky's standpoint, a harrowing experience for the willing but frustrated Seifert and not so good for the spectators, many of whom, in addition to voicing their displeasure, started to walk out on the show early. There were no knockdowns and neither boxer received a damaging blow, yet both were trying to the limits of their distinctive abilities all the way. Levinsky claimed a foul several times early in the battle and Seifert was warned. In fact, so clever was the Battler that he once even deceived eagle-eyed Joe Keally, the referee, who warned Seifert for a blow on the hip. When a veteran can outsmart his opponent and the referee at the same time with a minimum amount of effort, he is quite keen, and that's the sort of a foe Seifert was up against last night.

Sandy scaled 187 pounds and Levinsky 183.

JOHNSON WINS GRUDGE GO

Garfield Johnson easily defeated Kid Crutchfield in the grudge battle between the Hill Negro heavyweights which comprised the eight-round semi-final. Crutchfield started off like a terror in the first half-minute and looked as if he might make it tough for the Black Streak, but thereafter he faded down to a whisper and Johnson had him holding and tincanning while he hit him at will over the remainder of the route. Crutchfield weighed 183½ pounds and Johnson 176¼.

Jack Katkish of Lawrenceville, 145 pounds, was too rough and rugged for Nick Susnell of Rochester, Pa., 144½, and outpunched the latter in the second six-rounder. Nick fought back hard and made a grueling affair of it. He went down from a blow to the jaw in the midst of a torrid rally in the fourth round and was saved by the bell at the count of two. He rallied well, being only shaded in the fifth round and carrying the sixth.

Johnny Powers of Clairton, 144½, proved easy for Jimmy Belmont of Braddock, 145, in the six-round opener.

One of the largest gates of the season, totaling nearly $5,000, was recorded after the three-weeks' shutdown of boxing at the Garden.

Frisco Exudes Optimism, Confidence, Faith.

By B. C. FORBES

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 7.

THERE'S a buoyancy, a breeziness, an all's-well-with-the-worldness here that you don't find among the people in most states. They exude optimism, confidence, faith. They are intensely loyal to their own locality, their own state. The sunshine in their hearts matches the sunshine out of doors.

BACK east there is a rather widespread idea that things have been going somewhat badly in California. Well, I have been digging into the facts, into the official figures.

The actual records do not warrant pessimism.

FIRST let me say that California ranks first for the whole country in petroleum resources, second in motor vehicle registration, third in the value of all 1927 farm crops, fourth in total wealth and income tax, sixth in population, seventh in per capita wealth.

Her last year's farm crops were estimated at $435,213,000. Deciduous fruit acreage has increased 72 per cent since 1921. Average yield of cotton per acre in the United States is 150 pounds; in Kern county, San Joaquin Valley, 503 pounds, and for the whole valley, 442 pounds.

The Imperial Valley in California, of which we hear much, in 1926 shipped 65,000 carloads of agricultural products from 515,000 acres of irrigated farms, equal to one carload for every man, woman and child in the valley!

NOW let's answer the question, "How's business?"

There has been some falling off in certain lines along the Pacific coast as compared with the banner 1926-27 period. Crops this year will be governed by rainfall; so far all's well. Industrial conditions and prospects are favorably regarded in such lines as building and building materials, automobiles, steel products, minerals, live stock and most manufactures.

The main concern of agricultural interests is marketing rather than production. Growers are actively attacking this problem.

The 1927 grape shipments reached 74,000 carloads, compared with 64,349 in 1926. About 31 per cent were table and 69 per cent juice grapes. Prices averaged higher than in the previous three seasons, the total exceeding $37,000,000.

Almost 7,000 more carloads of citrus fruits were marketed last season than in the previous record season, 1925-26. Shipments totaled 70,600 carloads, 57,163 oranges and grapefruit, 13,437 lemons. The F. O. B. returns were $120,000,000, against the previous season's record of $98,000,000. The new crop may show a slight decrease.

IN the last five years California has produced 66 per cent of all the oranges grown in the United States and almost 100 per cent of the lemons. Official figures follow:

Year.	Production.	Farm Val.
CROP—APPLES.
1927	7,485,000 bu.	$ 6,712,000
1926	10,350,000 bu.	4,140,000
PEACHES.
1927	427,000 tons	10,575,000

The principal dried fruit production in California for 1926 and 1927 was as follows:

Crop-Year.	Tons.	Value.
Raisins—1927	285,000	$19,950,000
1926	272,000	19,040,000
Prunes—1927	190,000	19,300,000
1926	150,000	15,000,000

PRICES for raisins and dried prunes are lower than a year ago, due to carry-over stocks and large 1927 pack, but this has stimulated sales, and a clean-up at slightly better prices is looked for.

Canned fruit production last year was 16,775,235 cases, against 20,974,700 in 1926, 15,631,852 in 1925 and 10,362,908 in 1924. Canned vegetables totaled 8,729,599 cases last year, against 9,547,275 in 1926, 8,527,891 in 1925 and 7,138,779 in 1924. Holdings by canners are less today than a year ago and canners are optimistic.

THESE statistics of California field crops tell the story:

Crops-Year.	Production. Bushels.	Farm Value.
Wheat—1927 ...	13,642,000	$16,098,000
1926	13,015,000	15,620,000
Barley—1927 ...	27,335,000	25,422,000
1926	22,490,000	18,792,000
Rice—1927	8,960,000	10,304,000
1926	7,986,000	10,462,000
Beans—1927	4,825,000	17,128,000
1926	5,724,000	17,202,000
Potatoes—1927 ..	7,956,000	7,558,000
1926	6,922,000	9,138,000
	Tons.
Hay (tame) 1927	5,156,000	64,450,000
1926	4,984,000	61,302,000

MY guess, based on experiences to date, is that California will not lack rain this season!

WANTS SON, NOT HUSBAND

Mrs. Irene Anderson, 21, of 525 North Murtland avenue, isn't so interested in her husband's return, but she wants her year-old son, she told Magistrate A. D. Brandon in Morals Court today when the husband, David Anderson, 21, was arraigned.

Anderson told the court he had left their home with the baby 10 days ago and had taken it to "safe keeping" with his sister in Chattanooga, Tenn. His wife, he said, didn't treat the baby properly, allowed men to bring liquor into their home, and he was going to divorce her.

Anderson was held.

STOCK PRICES ABOUT-FACE AND SLIDE

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—(AP)—Stock prices turned reactionary today after an early period of strength. Except for the marking up of the call money renewal rate to 4½ per cent, there was nothing in the day's news to influence the price movement. Pools, however, appeared to be having more difficulty in attracting a public following, encouraging a resumption of short selling in some of the recently volatile specialties.

Laclede Gas broke 8 points, Freeport Texas, 5, Detroit Edison, 7½ and General Railway Signal, Vanadium Steel, Mullins Corporation and Midland Steel Products were hammered down 5 or more points below last night's final quotations. United States Steel common and General Motors both lost their early gains of about 2 points each.

Renewal of selling pressure against the rails was in reflection of the poor 1927 earnings, preliminary figures of which are now being published. Pittsburgh and West Virginia collapsed 6 points, Gulf, Mobile and Northern 4 and Chesapeake and Ohio, Erie, Delaware and Hudson, Kansas City Southern, Missouri Pacific and Canadian Pacific sank 2 points or more.

Bear traders sold stocks freely on the theory that the market's technical position had been weakened by the recent violent rise in a number of specialties, and that a further shake-out was warranted. Weakness of the rails led to liquidation of many popular industrials by frightened investors, who were also disturbed by the calling of about $20,000,000 in bank loans.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—The cotton market opened firm today at an advance of 15 to 20 points in response to relatively firm Liverpool cables and failure of early weather news to show any break in the Texas drought. There was rather active covering, together with some trade and Liverpool buying, but demand tapered off after industrial orders had been supplied and prices later eased off several points from the best under southern selling.

May contracts reacted from 17.75 to 17.63, the general market showing net advances of 2 to 10 points at the end of the first hour.

Private cables attributed the firmness in Liverpool to trade calling and covering, with local and continental buying, but said buyers of cotton cloths were still holding off and that yarns were freely offered.

The market steadied later. There appeared to be comparatively little for sale after the absorption of early offerings, while there was trade buying of March and commission house buying of early new crop months, presumably on the complaints of continued drought in West Texas. In some cases early sellers appeared to be covering on the rally which carried March up to 17.58c or 21 points net higher, and October to 17.54c or about 13 points above yesterday's closing quotation. Trading was quiet, but the market was within a point or two of the best.

GENERAL LIST IS STEADY

Early prices on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today showed no important changes from the levels prevailing on the close Monday. Business was in light volume with the trading well scattered among the various issues.

Lone Star Gas started the day at 55½ as against yesterday's high mark of 55¾, the best figure of the current movement, while Arkansas was up a small fraction on a few sales at 8¾. Carnegie Metals was quiet, but the price held firm around 23. Blaw Knox Steel changed hands at 96, the figure at which the shares have been selling for a week or so.

Standard Sanitary was dull despite the issuance of the annual report today showing a moderate gain in net for 1927 as compared with 1926. Earnings for the year were equivalent to $6.92 a share on the outstanding common. This equals about $2.30 a share for the new stock, which is to be issued in exchange for the present shares on a three-for-one basis.

Declaration of the regular semiannual dividend of $3.50 on American Window Glass Company preferred was followed by an advance of five points in that issue which sold today at 90, as compared with the last previous price of 85. Lone Star Gas sagged back in the late market and changed hands in fairly heavy volume at 55.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND VIEWS

Two-Sided Stock Market.

The market developed a distinctly two-sided appearance around midday, with several specialties selling off sharply, and some of the leading industrials, including Steel common, General Motors and American Can forging ahead on strong buying. The Street interpreted the sharp breaks in the specialties as evidence that the banks were scanning their loan accounts closely and apprehensive gossip of possible puncturing of air pockets was heard on all sides. Freeport Texas Sulphur, Mullins Body and others which have enjoyed sensational advances in recent months were thrown overboard in heavy volume, but despite their pronounced weakness, the general list did not give way. The sugar stocks firmed up after making new lows in the forenoon and, as the buying centered in American Sugar common, the impression got abroad that directors will probably declare the regular $1.25 dividend on the issue tomorrow.

Northwest Conditions Sound.

Ralph Budd, president of Great Northern Railway, declared that business in the Northwest is sounder than at any time since the World War. He stated that crop prospects are excellent as there is a heavy blanket of snow protecting the wheat. Farmers in many cases are adopting the Wisconsin plan of diversified farming with a variety of crops, which makes for greater security on the farm. The railroads suffered in 1927, Mr. Budd said, both from decreased traffic and from increased expenses, as expressed in higher wages and higher fuel costs, but he believes prospects for 1928 are better in many respects.

Production of light and heavy crude oils in Mexico in 1927, totaling 61,394,942 barrels is a decrease of 31.1 per cent from the 89,106,557 barrels produced in 1926 and smallest annual withdrawals since 1917. Peak production was 193,397,587 barrels in 1921.

Nevada Consolidated.

Recent strength in Nevada Consolidated Copper has revived reports that Kennecott will make an offer for the stock. This rumor continues to meet with official denial. Indication is that Nevada's earnings for 1927 were somewhat under $1.75 a share and that present earnings are probably at a rate slightly over $2 a share a year after depreciation and taxes. Explanation of the run up in Nevada seems to be that the interests which were active some time ago in Green Cananea and Calumet and Arizona decided to take a position in Nevada between 18 and 20. As a result the stock quickly attracted tape followers and ran up to a high of 23¼. Many old and well informed stockholders are reported to have sold stock above 22. They apparently feel that if Kennecott, with plenty of money in its treasury, had wanted Nevada it would have bought when the stock was under 15 less than a year ago.

Standard Sanitary Earned $6.92.

Standard Sanitary Manufacturing Company reports net earnings of $7,520,612 for the year 1927, equal after preferred dividends to $6.92 a share on the 1,079,142 common shares ($25 par) outstanding, as compared with $7,141,810, or $6.59 a share on 1,082,297 shares for the year 1926. Stockholders recently approved a change in the capitalization calling for a change in the par value of the common from $25 to no par, and an exchange of the present stock into new no-par shares on a basis of three new for each present share outstanding. Accompanying the earnings report was a statement from the company announcing that preliminary arrangements have been made to erect manufacturing plants and possibly install distributing units in various foreign countries and in South America. This expansion program will cover a period of several years. The first European plant will probably be built in Germany.

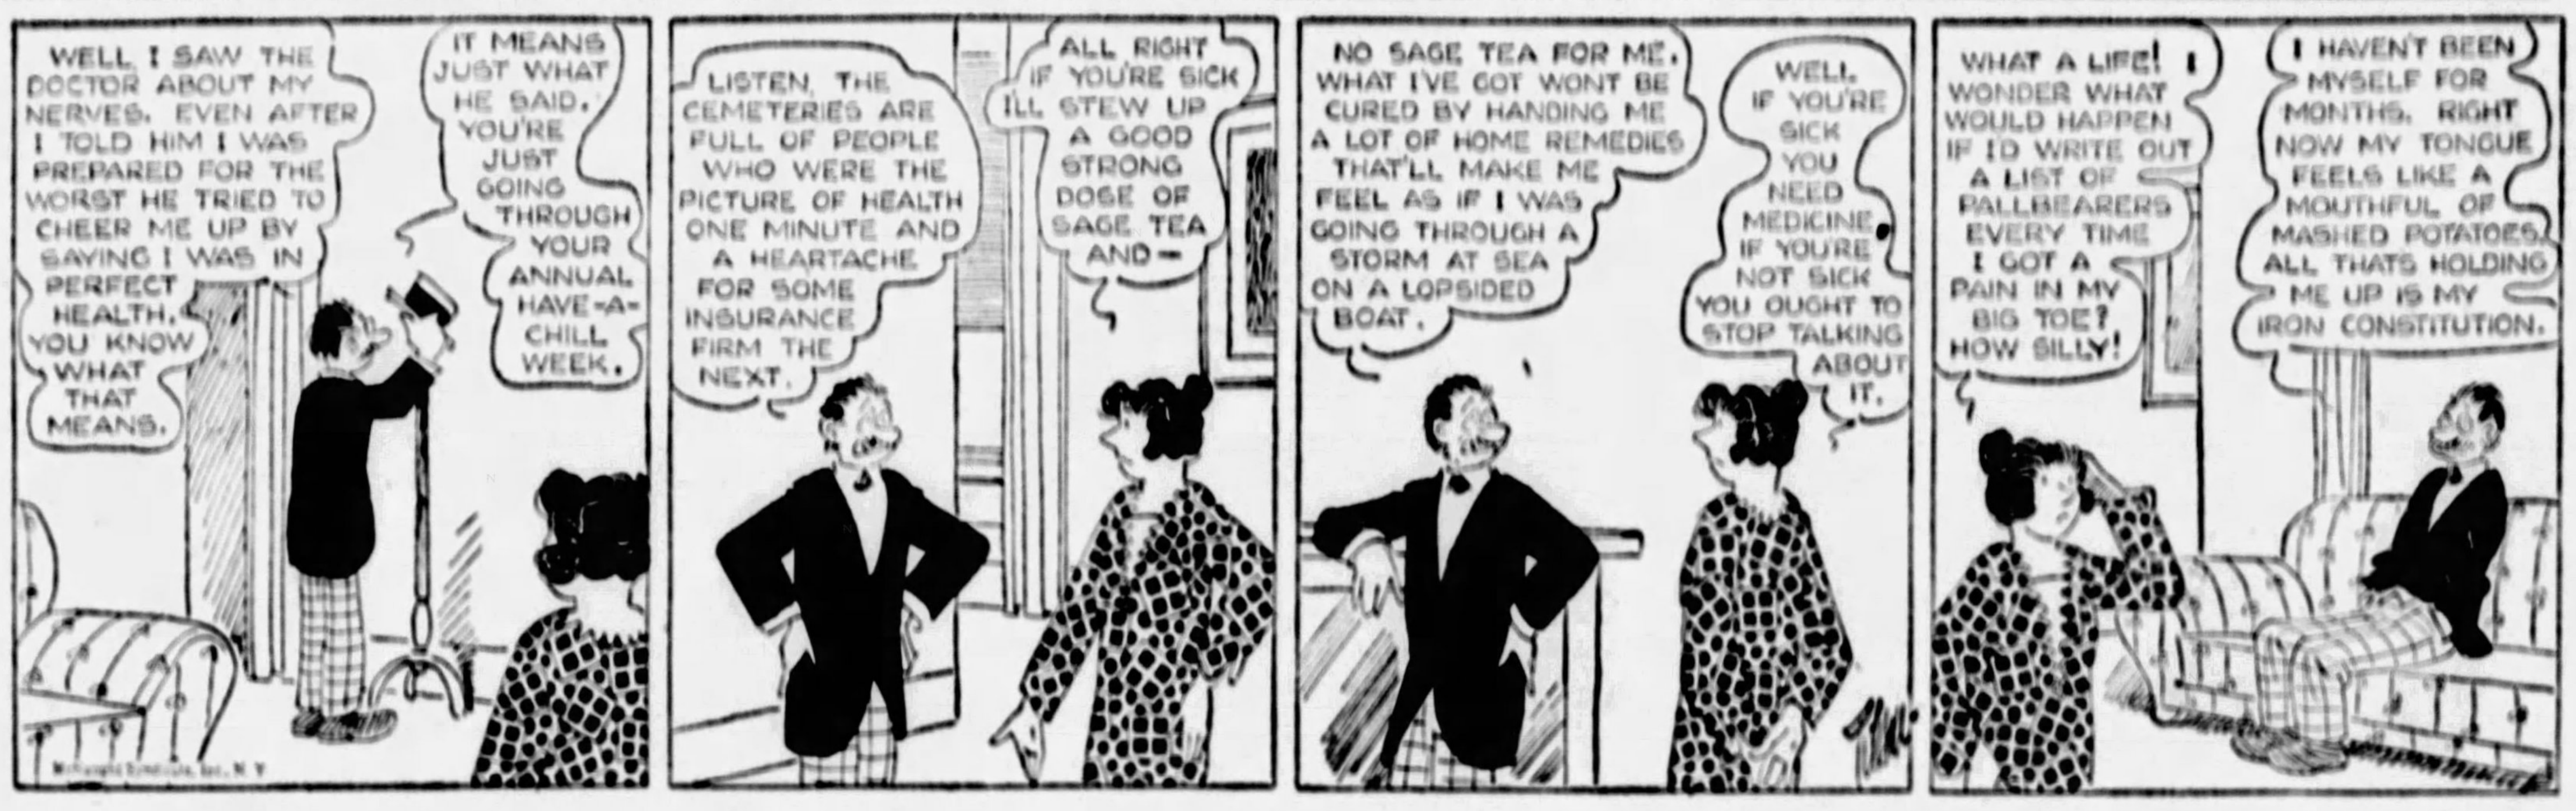
THE BUNGLE FAMILY

The Annual Scare



WELL I SAW THE DOCTOR ABOUT MY NERVES. EVEN AFTER I TOLD HIM I WAS PREPARED FOR THE WORST HE TRIED TO CHEER ME UP BY SAYING I WAS IN PERFECT HEALTH. YOU KNOW WHAT THAT MEANS.
IT MEANS JUST WHAT HE SAID. YOU'RE JUST GOING THROUGH YOUR ANNUAL HAVE-A-CHILL WEEK.
LISTEN, THE CEMETERIES ARE FULL OF PEOPLE WHO WERE THE PICTURE OF HEALTH ONE MINUTE AND A HEARTACHE FOR SOME INSURANCE FIRM THE NEXT.
ALL RIGHT IF YOU'RE SICK I'LL STEW UP A GOOD STRONG DOSE OF SAGE TEA AND—
NO SAGE TEA FOR ME. WHAT I'VE GOT WONT BE CURED BY HANDING ME A LOT OF HOME REMEDIES THAT'LL MAKE ME FEEL AS IF I WAS GOING THROUGH A STORM AT SEA ON A LOPSIDED BOAT.
WELL, IF YOU'RE SICK YOU NEED MEDICINE. IF YOU'RE NOT SICK YOU OUGHT TO STOP TALKING ABOUT IT.
WHAT A LIFE! I WONDER WHAT WOULD HAPPEN IF I'D WRITE OUT A LIST OF PALLBEARERS EVERY TIME I GOT A PAIN IN MY BIG TOE? HOW SILLY!
I HAVEN'T BEEN MYSELF FOR MONTHS. RIGHT NOW MY TONGUE FEELS LIKE A MOUTHFUL OF MASHED POTATOES. ALL THATS HOLDING ME UP IS MY IRON CONSTITUTION.

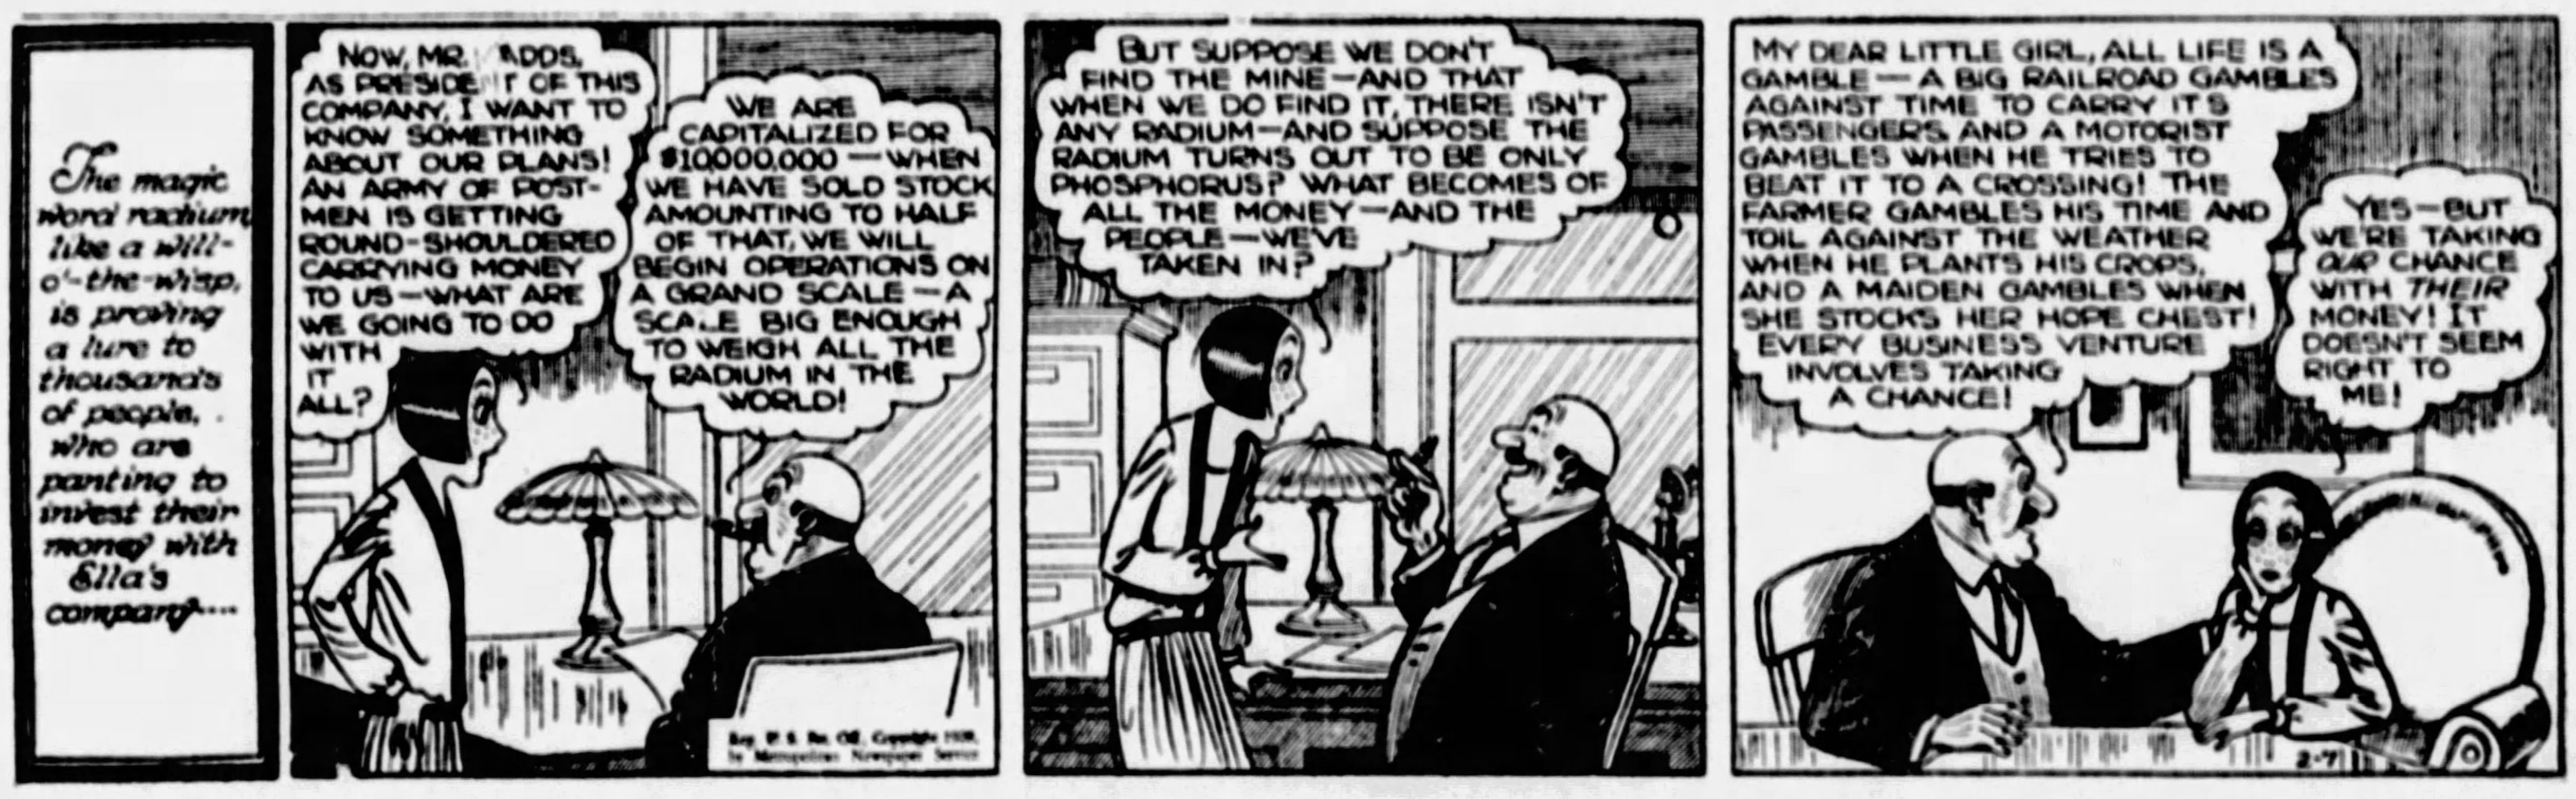
ELLA CINDERS

A Great Gamble



The magic word radium like a will-o'-the-wisp, is proving a lure to thousands of people, who are panting to invest their money with Ella's company....
NOW, MR. WADDS, AS PRESIDENT OF THIS COMPANY, I WANT TO KNOW SOMETHING ABOUT OUR PLANS! AN ARMY OF POSTMEN IS GETTING ROUND-SHOULDERED CARRYING MONEY TO US—WHAT ARE WE GOING TO DO WITH IT ALL?
WE ARE CAPITALIZED FOR $10,000,000 — WHEN WE HAVE SOLD STOCK AMOUNTING TO HALF OF THAT, WE WILL BEGIN OPERATIONS ON A GRAND SCALE — A SCALE BIG ENOUGH TO WEIGH ALL THE RADIUM IN THE WORLD!
BUT SUPPOSE WE DON'T FIND THE MINE—AND THAT WHEN WE DO FIND IT, THERE ISN'T ANY RADIUM—AND SUPPOSE THE RADIUM TURNS OUT TO BE ONLY PHOSPHORUS? WHAT BECOMES OF ALL THE MONEY—AND THE PEOPLE—WE'VE TAKEN IN?
MY DEAR LITTLE GIRL, ALL LIFE IS A GAMBLE — A BIG RAILROAD GAMBLES AGAINST TIME TO CARRY IT'S PASSENGERS. AND A MOTORIST GAMBLES WHEN HE TRIES TO BEAT IT TO A CROSSING! THE FARMER GAMBLES HIS TIME AND TOIL AGAINST THE WEATHER WHEN HE PLANTS HIS CROPS, AND A MAIDEN GAMBLES WHEN SHE STOCKS HER HOPE CHEST! EVERY BUSINESS VENTURE INVOLVES TAKING A CHANCE!
YES—BUT WE'RE TAKING OUR CHANCE WITH THEIR MONEY! IT DOESN'T SEEM RIGHT TO ME!

BUGS BAER Says

THE national budget for the current year is well over $3,000,000,000.

A budget is arithmetic with the mumps.

That $3,000,000,000 indicates that we must have got good pitching to hold them scoreless in the last nine innings.

ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

The budget is the cost of running the government from the end of a fiscal year to the start of another appropriation.

The deficiency experts have made noble efforts to reduce the waste line of administrations, but their efforts have been crowned with blue mud.

Democracy is the most expensive form of freedom. You can live cheaper in Europe, where they buy motor cars and then walk to save gasoline.

The national emblem and the public debt are two of the 13 original stars. No power on earth can tear the flag down.

And as for the expenses of the current year, no power on earth can budge it.

Europe has budgets also. But over there they add up their figures more out of curiosity than respect.

And when peace gets too costly on the borrowing side of the Atlantic, they can always start a war and have it financed.

Only efficiency experts drown in economical waves. When the rescue is over you will find the budget on the beach and the life guards in the undertow.

When you hear our forced crop of presidential candidates yelling economy, you can be sure that the building is about to collapse under the weight of its new roof.

Nobody is interested in reducing that $3,000,000,000. We don't care whose birthday it is. But we certainly would like to get a piece of the cake.

We have seen the effects of economy in our own home town. After it was over, the economist was wearing a new high silk hat. And the letter carriers were walking around barefoot.

Let the deficiency experts figure out the giant redwoods of California by the amount of splinters they contain, allow them to count the sunlight by the mote, even permit them to classify Niagara by the pint, but never give them the authority to put our budget on the diet.

Like a bump on a log, the wart on a pickle, or a putty nose on a comedian, it is a benevolent growth whose size is an indication of the magnificent dimensions of its parent body.

Support Given Town Hall Is Assurance of Building

Allegheny County's Town Hall project received mighty impetus at a dinner given in furtherance of the movement in the William Penn Hotel last night under the auspices of the Town Hall Committee of the Chamber of Commerce, Measured from the standpoint of enthusiasm, no matter that has come before the people for their approval since the war has aroused such interest in an assemblage so representative of the county-wide community,

The Town Hall will be built—every speaker at the dinner said it should be built and the response of the hearers indicated in an unmistakable way that it must be built. Those who gave that decision included men and women prominent in civic, political, industrial, financial, professional and commercial life, from all parts of the county. County commissioners and other county officials, as well as Mayor Charles H, Kline and members of council observed the evidence of that decision and could not have been otherwise than greatly impressed with the earnestness and unanimity with which it was given.

Speakers stressed the value of the Town Hall idea and they were given the closest attention, especially two who spoke with the support of Town Hall experience, William Ganson Rose, of Cleveland, who gave an illustrated talk, and Lincoln C. Dickey, manager of the Cleveland Public Auditorium, in whose home city the Auditorium has proved to be one of priceless worth as a civic asset in the life of the entire community,

It was shown that the Town Hall usually is a self-supporting and even a profit-making institution, but the stressed fact was that the greater value lay not in this, but in the well-being of the community that is blessed with such a building, adequate to its needs,

Men were not alone in telling the need and benefit of a community meeting place that can accommodate everything from a card party to an automobile show or political convention. The voice of our women, who made up fully one-third of those in attendance, was ably represented by Mrs. Carl E. Cosolowsky, president of the Federation of Women's Clubs, and whose plea for a Town Hall was based on a personal study of the activities and possibilities of the Cleveland Auditorium,

The Chamber of Commerce committee, which has been working on this project for many months, saw its efforts bear fruit last night, when the public virtually took up the labor so far done by the commitee alone. The committee heard and saw the proposal of a Town Hall being given unstinted approval. It observed how the official wind blows in the approval of Mayor Kline and County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong. And it observed a public spirit that was a veritable demonstration of the voice of the people.

It is that spirit that will cause the Town Hall to be built. If the project had been received with even ordinary manifestations of real sincerity of intention, there might still linger some doubt that it would go through, But there is no danger of that now. The spirit of that gathering of citizens was such that nothing can turn it aside.

The Town Hall will be built. And it will be one not only adequate to the needs of Allegheny County, but an institution expressing the county's patriotic and civic pride of accomplishment and aspirations,

They Will Need Wits

The Boys and Girls Now Growing.

Boys and girls used to grow out of childhood into maturity through placid periods that differed not much one from another. The young man or woman of thirty, say, lived in a world that hadn't changed a lot since he or she entered it.

But did you ever think what youth has had to cope with in the last couple of decades?

A comparatively placid and easy-going civilization suddenly began turning handsprings and somersaults. Life began to move. Almost overnight came automobiles, airplanes, movies, radio, to mention only a few things, Thought began to move almost as fast. In a few days, it seemed, certainties accepted for centuries became nonsense; mere visions of science changed to actualities.

The youngsters had to keep up. They turned somersaults, too. They are still turning them,

One of these hectic generations is settling down. The members of it haven't quite caught up with the rush, perhaps, but they have adjusted themselves after a fashion to living in a kaleidoscopic age when anything may happen. That is the war generation—survivors of an upheaval that shook society to the very bottom,

Another generation is fighting for a foothold right now in a spinning world of new conditions and ideas. These are the college and high school boys and girls of today. And the casualties in the battle—the missing, and alas! the dead—dismay the public, numb parents with anxiety.

Still more childhood is being thrust inexorably forward into grips with a life that grows dizzier daily. Look at that lad of ten, and his sister. Consider what confronts them!

Their telephones and radios—if there are any telephones and radios left—will be supplemented by television. They will see their distant friends as well as hear them; their movies will be carried to them in their easy chairs at home, if home survives.

Just a hint, of course, and only of material things. It would take columns to speculate on what may be the marvels of human achievement in which these children will participate before they're old.

And they are being trained today for living a life compared to which our present revolutionary era is tame,

Is that training even half-way adequate? There's something to be deeply serious about,

For no generation ever will have had such need of wits as this one just growing up,

"Godless" Processions

Men Are NATURALLY Religious.

The Bolshevik government, which puts up posters calling religion "the opium of the people," is annoyed to find the people, and especially young people, going back to that particular opium.

Thousands of Russian boys and girls feeling the need of religion are going back to the church, although officially encouraged to stay away from it and believe in atheism,

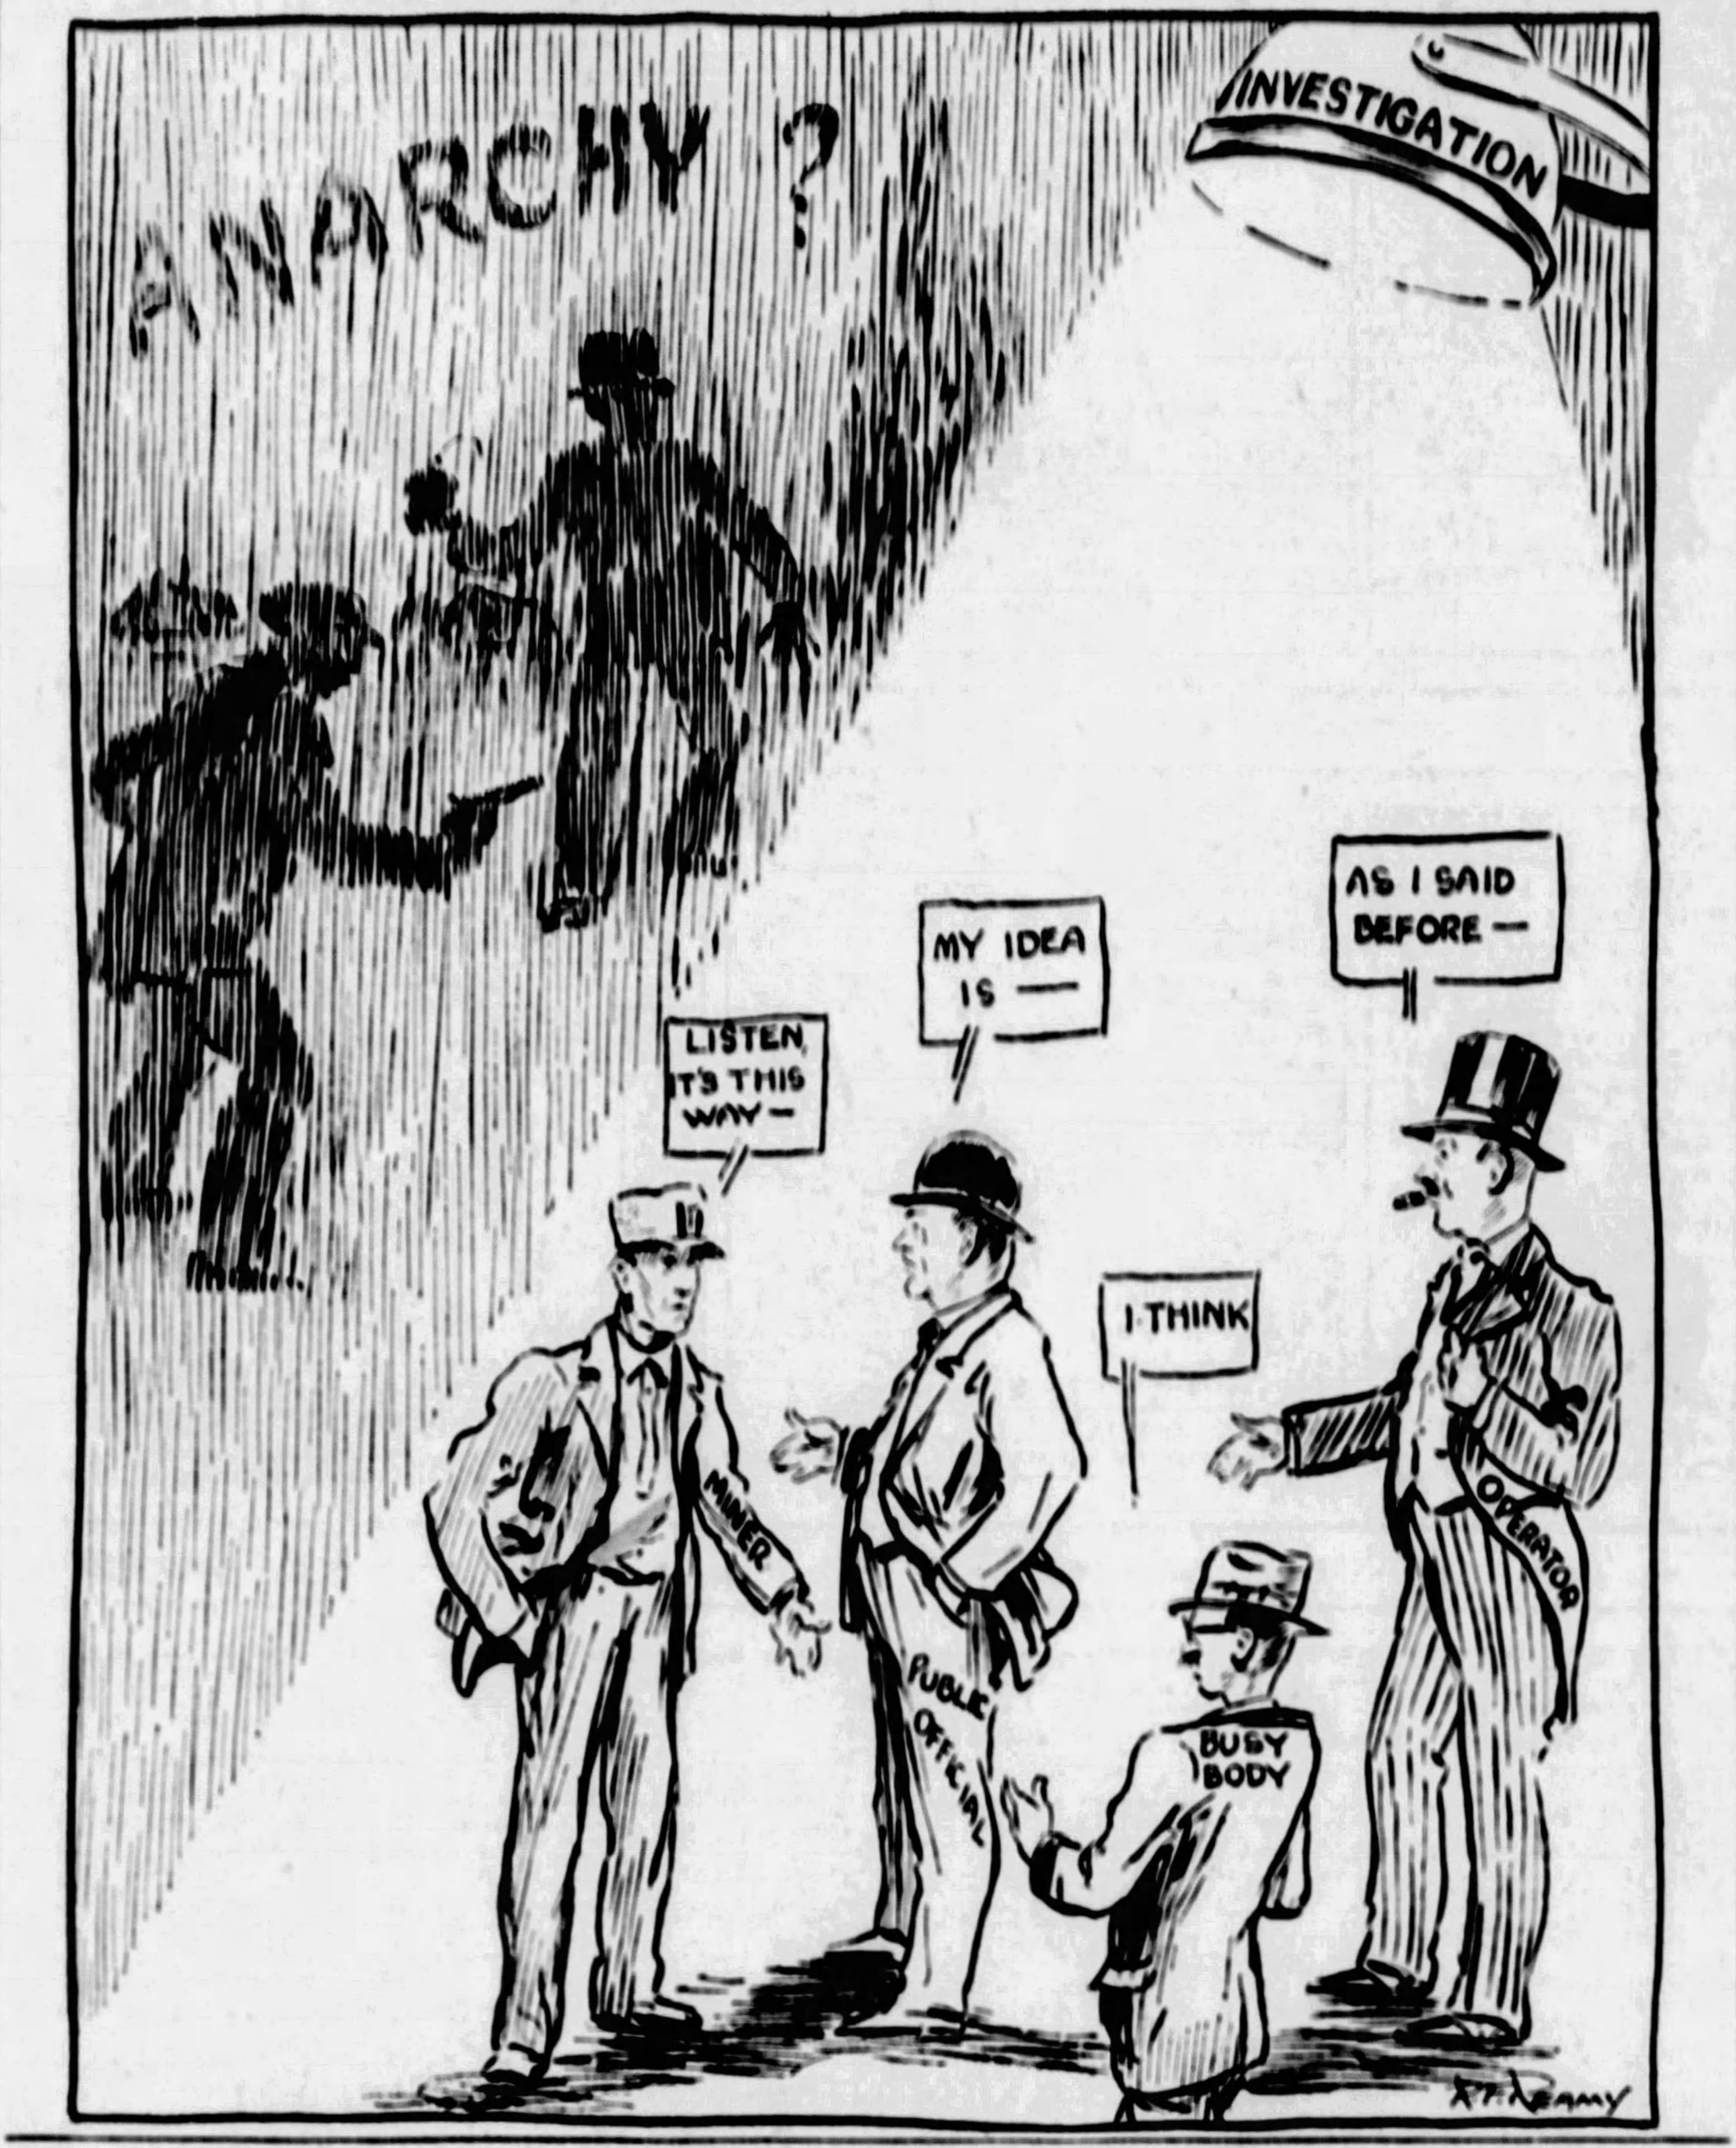
Christmas processions and religious demonstrations before churches were forbidden this year,

And the Bolshevik held so-called "Godless" processions during the Christmas period, carrying banners saying they don't believe in God, etc,

It would have been interesting had a little earthquake shock, or a violent, crashing storm of thunder and lightning come up during the "Godless" parade, to see how many of the paraders would have made a rush for the churches,

Men and women, Russian, Chinese or Patagonian, are NATURALLY RELIGIOUS, You can't cure them of it by passing laws abolishing God,

TURN THE LIGHT—QUICK!



Garrett P. Serviss Says:

Simple Knowledge

I HAVE never been a school teacher, but I have often wished that I could teach in one school that I know of, which, however, has no places for teachers, but only unlimited room for pupils. It is the outdoor school; the school kept by nature herself. The pupils are mostly their own teachers, once they are started. They become, like the rustic heroine of one of Wordsworth's ballads:

"—— known to every star,
And every wind that blows."

We spend enormous sums on education, often wastefully and without any valuable results; we discuss education and legislate about it, often ignorantly and in a manner that only leads to confusion worse confounded; we jack-up the requirements of the schools until they are away above the heads and the needs of the vast majority of the pupils, and in the midst of our misdirected efforts we blindly neglect the fundamental and truly essential elements of all education.

Whether it is from the primary school, the high school, the college or the university, that the recipient of our standard educational guidance emerges into the world, it is very rarely that he or she has obtained the simple knowledge of elementary things which is the basis of mental life.

You will find many a college graduate who is thrown into the greatest confusion if you ask him to explain the phases of the moon. The fact probably is that he has never thought on the subject. Neither his parents (if they knew) told him, nor his teachers (if they knew) thought it worth while to discuss so "unprofitable" a bit of knowledge. And yet that is exactly the kind of knowledge which makes man worth while and keeps him above the beasts of the field and the fowls of the air.

The rarest and most useful teacher in the world is the one who spends the most time on the simple elements of human knowledge. When they become familiar and are completely comprehended everything else will follow as needed. Professor Edwin B. Wilson, of Harvard, in a recent address, tells how when he was studying in Paris he asked the famous mathematician Boussinesq why he took the time to prove so many elementary theorems. Boussinesq replied that "it did the students good to see such propositions demonstrated, and that he had a superabundance of time, anyhow."

Nature as a teacher also has "a superabundance of time," and it is our great mistake to think that we must hurry over such things. We have our whole life time to learn in, and the person who does not find that he is learning as long as he lives, and does not delight in so learning, has started wrong and has failed to get into nature's school at all.

If you have not gone to the roots of knowledge you can never understand it, and if you are familiar with the roots, which are always simple, the rest is at your command when you need it. The true business of any school is to help you to THINK; not to stuff your memory with knowledge that someone else has digested for you. No predigested milk is wanted in education.

"Soup and Fish"

AMERICAN styles for men have, in some respects, come under the displeasure of London experts attending the meeting of the International Clothing Designers' Association. They say nobody in England would dare ware what we call a Tuxedo or "soup and fish" in a mixed company.

Well, perhaps that only goes to show once again that Americans have plenty of courage. There really is no other moral to be drawn from the incident. Britons never, never have been slaves and Americans never, never have been cowards.

Have You Planned?

WHAT is your plan of life?

A noted man of this country divided his life into five-year periods or stepping stones.

He had an objective.

Each period dove-tailed the preceding as well as the succeeding one and all carried along in line for the top.

What is your objective for January the first in 1934?

Have you well thought-out plans for your future, or are you merely drifting along, taking things as they come, hoping for the best, that in some way you will move upward a bit?

If you had a point to meet in five, ten or twenty years you would change your tactics and perhaps work to better advantage.

You would have an incentive.

You would work earnestly to accomplish something worthwhile.

But, like most of us, you have probably followed a course which would be ruinous to any business venture—you are moving without a plan.

The Rhyming Optimist

Chess

UPON the painted board they wait,
The bishop, knight and rook,
The king in closely-guarded state,
The queen, with regal look.

Here also stand the patient pawns,
The ranks ill-paid, obscure;
For them no lofy promise dawns,
They serve and they endure.

Since ancient days the wise and great
Have loved this battle-field;
Through winged hours they have played at Fate,
Watched foemen win or yield,

This Earth is but a painted board
Where kings and bishops move,
Rooks, knights and pawns, a motley horde,
Beneath the hand of Love!

Liquor Item

HERE'S one for the prohibition book:

"The greatest menace to society is the motorist who drives under the influence of liquor. Twelve years ago less than fifty licenses were revoked for that cause. During 10 years I have revoked more than 7,000."

William L. Dill, Motor Vehicle Commissioner of New Jersey, speaking. He added that the evil was growing "by leaps and bounds."

That the drunken driver peril should have reached its present alarming proportions under prohibition is an ironical commentary on the effectiveness of Volsteadism.

New York Day by Day

by O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—Paddy's Market on Ninth avenue is little known in limousine circles, but to middle class wage earners it is an El Dorado—a genuine marche des puces, The best in provisions are huckstered at astoundingly low prices, Saturday is bargain day,

Aproned housewives go there with capacious baskets to fill the family larder, Truck gardeners and their dumpy, apple-cheeked wives sit in the stalls to barter and haggle good-naturedly with the endless parade of shoppers,

The flare of the banjo torches, the milling and jostling and raucous shouting gives the hectic glamour of a street fair, There is the old horseradish grinder with his smoked glasses, the ruddy chuck steak man, the vendors of onions, carrots, cabbages and such,

Patrons arrive on street cars or afoot. There are women who carry money in handkerchief ends and men with sectional snap purses. Now and then is the cry, "stop thief!" and the crowd pounces on some rat-faced pickpocket to hold him for the police.

In upstairs windows are leaning women, screaming imprecations to children in the street. Phonographs grind out wheezy, forgotten melodies. Roof tops bristle with radio aerials. Fire escapes are crisscrossed with wet wash, and puling babies add to the din.

Then there are the "left over" marketers who arrive just before the close to scramble and bid for remnants. A pound of malaga grapes may sell for a nickle, a cabbage for two cents, a family steak for ten cents, for nothing is left behind.

The market place when the caravan departs, resembles a Kansas hamlet after the twister. It is an Irish district—hence the name Paddy's market. The bright touch of fashion is when frugal chorus girls go there to market, following the matinee. But they do not come in hordes.

Literary speed records have been broken by R. M Brinkerhoff, the illustrator, who wrote and illustrated a children's book and delivered it within 48 hours. There is a short story writer who frequently finishes a tale of 4,000 words in three hours. The average novelist is able to turn out two books a year. The custom of dictating has increased speed and puffed the income of many writers, although some of our most successful authors continue to write by hand.

Every boarding house has a girl "slavey"—a work-worn drudge who washes dishes, builds fires, cleans steps and performs other menial tasks. In New York somehow they are a type. They remain for years without leaving the house to go further than the corner grocery. They are the first up and the last to bed and the only touch of romance in their lives comes through reading paper-backed novels. They are more numerous in Brooklyn than in Manhattan, but they are still seen in the latter borough, especially in the maisons catering to a theatrical clientele.

There is something stimulating in these coffee-pot places frequented by taxi drivers. They gulp food with their hats on, reading tabloids propped up against the sugar bowls. And their talk is fly and friendly. "How's hacking, big boy?" "Fine, just merry-go-rounded a drunk in Central Park," and such. They eat limburger and onion, hamburger and garlic between thick slabs with a gusto. And they wield toothpicks out front unashamed.

Too Good for Second Term

By DR. FRANK CRANE

A town council in Massachusetts declared that it wanted President Coolidge for a second elective term and voted as being in favor of doubling his salary and making him President for life,

This might work to the advantage of the country. Mr. Coolidge has been an ideal President and under him the country has prospered greatly.

This, however, is no reason for continuing him in office, but rather is a reason against it,

Most tyrannies begin with a good man, but when once the custom has been set up they are liable to get a bad man.

Tennyson says:

"The old order changeth,
Yielding place to new;
And God fulfills himself in many ways,
Lest one good custom should corrupt the world."

That is the difficulty. It is good customs that corrupt the world quite as much as bad customs.

The efficiency of democracy consists in the fact that it does not depend upon any one man.

Mr. Mussolini is doubtless a very efficient gentleman and it is said that Italy under him has prospered greatly. His notion, however, that the prosperity of a country depends on the will of an autocrat is fallacious.

It might work as long as there is a good autocrat at hand, but the means of choosing a ruler have been notoriously at fault and a bad man is liable to get into the job.

Although Mr. Coolidge is an excellent President, there are doubtless many other men who would also make first-class hands at the job.

Democracy is not weak enough to depend wholly upon Mr. Coolidge, although his leadership has been successful. For the sake of having one successful man, however, we are not ready to abandon the principles of democracy.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON.

Don't Be China Eggs

I HAVE a confession to make. I DO NOT ENJOY VERY NICE PEOPLE.

People whose motives are always of the best, whose conversation is always cheerful and discreet, who are never rude or violent or silly, whose accounts and consciences are always in order—they leave me cold. They not only leave me cold—they give me a pain in the neck.

Perhaps I should feel reprehensible about this, but I don't. I suspect that my reaction to such people is really healthy—that normal humans should not be uniformly sweet and serene—that there's something the matter with them if they are.

Katherine Mansfield felt that way about Nice People too. In her journal, recently published by her husband, she wrote—

"The mind I love must still have wild places, a tangled orchard where dark damsons drop in the heavy grass, an overgrown little wood, the chance of a snake or two (real snakes), a pool that nobody's fathomed the depth of—and paths threaded with those little flowers planted by the mind. It must also have real hiding places, not artificial ones. And I have never yet met the cultivated mind that has not had its shrubbery. I loathe and detest shrubberies."

Wild places, mysterious trails, weeds and flowers and fruits in a rich tangle—that's the sort of personality most of us admire. We admire it because it's a GROWING PERSONALITY. Growing things are never static, never in perfect order. They change from day to day. Each day holds new developments, new experiments. Some of the developments may not be so good—some of the experiments may end disastrously. But they're all exciting and stimulating. THEY'RE ALL A PART OF LIFE.

There's the secret of popularity—and unpopularity.

Unhappy young women often come to me. "There's no use being decent," they say bitterly. "Look at us. We never smoke or drink or pet or flirt. We no not use make-up or wear those terribly short skirts or act in an undignified manner. Nor do we expect young men to spend money foolishly on us. We are sensible and modest and yet no one pays any attention to us. All of the men chase after those vulgar, made-up, gold-diggers. It doesn't pay to be decent."

These young women sincerely believe that they are neglected because they are too good. It doesn't occur to them that their brand of goodness is as unattractive—AND AS UNLIKE THE REAL ARTICLE—as a cold, hard, shiny china egg.

It's human nature to resent goodness like that—to feel that it somehow cheats us. Goodness should be dynamic. It should add zest and interest and color to life. It should allure and enrich us, and if it doesn't we'll have none of it, no matter how antiseptic it may be. That's why Nice People are so frequently unpopular. They're too good—they're so good they're good for nothing.

Well?

THEY made an excellent pair of election canvassers. One was a zealot with an eloquent tongue; the other carried a book in which he recorded the result of each interview.

As the latter was deaf he had to rely on his companion for information as to whether the voter was "For" or "Against."

One of the calls was at a house the front door of which was reached by a flight of steps. The householder held opinions of his own, and the zealot tried in vain to make him see reason.

A fervent appeal was interrupted by the householder throwing the canvasser down the steps. He fell at the feet of his colleague, who, book open and pencil ready, inquired, "For or Against?"—London Tit-Bits.
